Table of Contents

Page

Introduction .................................................................................................................. ii

A Conceptual Framework for the Enhancement of Knowledge Transfer: An Integration of Interactive Distance Learning Technologies with Automated Prescriptive Assessment Methodologies
by Dr. Steven N. Ulosevich ............................................................................................ 1

Developing and Implementing a Computer Mediated Information Exchange (CMIE) for Student and Faculty Interaction
by Ms. Sallie Johnson .................................................................................................. 9

Tech It Up!! Techniques and Technologies for the Art and Science of Teaching by Dr. Wendy Gans ...................................................................................................... 27

Educational Technotrends
by Dr. David M. Keithly ............................................................................................... 33

Team Oriented Performance Education (TOP-ED) Concepts and Techniques Used in Aviation Education
by Mr. Craig S. Funk .................................................................................................... 45

Technological Advances in the Art and Science of Teaching: Interactive Computer Simulations for Business and Management Courses
by Dr. Melvin Anderson ............................................................................................... 62

How Adult Learning is Enhanced in the Master of Business Administration Aeronautical Program
by Dr. Mark S. Bellnap .................................................................................................. 81

Teaching Meteorology on the Web: a Student’s Perspective
by Mr. Bart Geerts ...................................................................................................... 93

Incorporating Graphing Calculators Into the Art and Science of Teaching Statistics and Decision Mathematics
by Dr. Mary Ellen K. Landers ..................................................................................... 99

Preparing Workers for the 21st Century: Correlating the Impact of Advanced Training and Human Capital Theory
by Mr. Robert Eugene Kasey ..................................................................................... 109