THE NEW DORM: A PROGRESS REPORT

By Frank Alexander

Many times I've driven past the construction site of our new campus off Cataline Street and have heard the buzz saws and the hammering hidden behind the trees, but today I decided to stop in and have a look at what was going on. What I first saw was hard to take. At one time, there had been a bunch of trees back there, and now there were neatly arranged piles of wooden beams and cement blocks and what appeared to be a series of rooms which had not as yet been completed.

I sought out Mr. George Lowe, construction foreman to ask him how things were coming. Mr. Lowe told me that the entire first floor had been poured and the beams and walls to support the second floor were well under way. He expected the new dorm to be completed and ready for us in October of this year.

The new dorm will house 397 students in fully air conditioned comfort. No mention has been made as yet to a cafeteria as an integral part of the new building, so I guess we will still have to be eating our meals at Sid's or wherever else we can get to. I tried to get an idea of what the insides would look like, but the architect's representative said that none would be available for at least another month, so we will just have to wait until then. Keep watching for the INFORMER to print the first available pictures as soon as we can get our ink-stained hands on them.

IS ER IN THE RED?

By Bernie Roke

In recent weeks rumors have been passed around campus and reported in the Orlando Sentinel and the Daytona Beach News-Journal that the school is in serious financial difficulties. In addition, it has been reported that Mr. Gary Cunningham, a member of the board of trustees and a local business man, is raising a $200,000.00 loan locally to cover expenses at Riddle..

In an interview Pres. Jack Hunt said that the school's financial health is the best it has ever been since moving to Daytona Beach. He said the $200,000 was being raised to collect all the school's short term debts for the construction of the library, student lounge and other improvements in one package. The time was proper for the public consolidation of this debt because the school's annual income has grown to an excess of $2,000,000.00. (Reporter's note - Estimates on the income that Embury-Riddle and its students bring to Daytona Beach are over $3,000,000.00 annually.

The recent resignations of J. A. Lauderbaugh and Dr. Marshall Powers were not considered by President Hunt to be related. He stated that Mr. Lauderbaugh resigned to accept the position as President of F.I.T. (Florida Institute of Technology). Dr. Marshall resigned due to differences of opinion in policy. Also pending is the resignation of the Treasurer, Mr. Duplessis which President Hunt expected to be approved soon by the Board of Trustees. Mr. Yackel, former Associate Dean of Academics, has accepted the position of Dean of Academics. Mr. Yackel said that there would not be an Associate Dean, but that the Division Chairmen of each academic branch would assume more authority in their respective positions.

THE PHOENIX

It's back! That's right. Your own personal yearbook has just hit the stands (again). Newly released from review, it's unchanged.

In a letter from Pres. Hunt to Dean Mansfield, Mr. Hunt said, "After giving much thought to the problem and its ramifications I have concluded that the Administration was derelict in not providing a capable advisor to the Editor and staff."

"I believe the Editor and the students did a good job for a first attempt although I do question the advisability of including certain portions of the book....Regardless, I believe in all fairness the students are entitled to complete the job they started."

SPEAKING OUT

the president's corner

Dear Student:

Your Student Government Association has planned an exciting program of activities for this spring trimester. The schedule of events includes two dances, a barbecue, fourteen movies and at least one lecture. There will be improvements in the INFORMER, campus traffic operations and in the other committees that comprise the S.G.A. Our ultimate goal this trimester is to be more efficient and effective in the operation of your organization.

On January 23, there will be an election for S.G.A. representatives to fill vacancies in the Student Council. Those students who would like to have their name placed on the ballot sheet, please stop by the S.G.A. office.

Good luck in all of your courses this trimester.

Sincerely yours,

Donald F. Kaltenbach

FROM THE SUGGESTION BOXES

How about checking Bulletin Boards at least semi-annually and getting rid of the crap. You could do it when you go around to put more up.
J.S.

Ed. The S.G.A. will keep the Bulletin Board clean but students who have items for sale please remove them after they are sold.

We wonder if it would be possible to have some music placed in the Union.

Possibly a juke-box in here or some type of piped music. This is a place of eating and leisure, not a study place like the library.

Name Withheld

Ed. As you can see, we have gotten the juke box for the Student Center, thanks to the S.G.A. We will now try to get some good records for you.

I've been in school now for 16 years and sometimes consider myself a professional student. I think very highly of this institute and the people trying to develop it into one of the better higher education facilities, but there's one little fault. In other schools that I've attended they've kept a close watch and evaluation on its faculty to make sure they excel in their teaching attributes.

The department heads were required to evaluate once a year (at least) candidly each teacher on his (or her) ability to get the subject across. Someone higher up must evaluate the department heads.

Not every person, no matter how much background and education, is a teacher. A teacher takes a special quality to get his subject across. Not every qualified person has it. Many people can be worth thousands in industry but not even 2¢ in the field of education.

My suggestion is that the school indoctrinate a system of evaluation. It could prove effective in keeping the best qualified people around.

Thank you for your attention.

E-7

Ed. We would appreciate any comments on this from the students and faculty. Just drop them into the INFORMER suggestion boxes.

Got any gripes? Like to hear yourself speak? Why not put your words on paper and drop it into one of the many INFORMER suggestion boxes around campus. Your letter will receive the prompt attention it deserves.

THE DRESS CODE

In reply to a recent article received from a student pertaining to Student Dress, we will have to agree that the mode of dress of some students is very poor.

The Code of Dress for ERAI students, we feel, is very liberal. It states: "It is expected that all students will present a neat, clean appearance while in attendance at ERAI. The dress appropriate to the beach, or inside your dormitory room is not acceptable on campus".

The Flight and A&P sections have their own regulations pertaining to dress. In comparison to other schools, this isn't too much to ask.

The following is a condensed quote from the University of Tampa's student handbook.

Trousers! Pressed and properly fitted. Dungarees, levis, blue denims, three-quarter length slacks, form-fitting trousers, may not be worn on the campus or in the community at any time. A belt must be worn if the trousers are designed for belts.

Shirts: With collars should be worn. T-shirts and sweatshirts should be reserved for athletic and recreational activities. University or other insignia theron gives them no elevated status. All shirt tails must be tucked in except for banlon shirts and Hawaiian-type shirts. If in doubt, tuck them in.

Footwear: Should cover the feet adequately. Thongs and other sandal-type footwear are restricted to the male residence halls and recreational activities. They may not be worn anywhere else on campus or in the community. Sneakers are designed for athletic and recreational activities.

General Grooming: Male students are expected to shave daily and whenever necessary. Students who desire to experiment with various beard growths should do so during those periods when they are neither enrolled at the University nor residing on campus. Students should keep their hair neatly cut while enrolled at the University.

As stated before, this is a condensed version and in comparison, Embry-Riddle is very liberal. The violators, after much observation, seem to come from the Engineering and Managements sections.

It should be remembered that each student not only represents himself, but you. Look around you. Is the student sitting next to you or across the Union or classroom the person you want to represent you?

It should also be remembered that ERAI has more contacts with representatives of various companies interviewing students periodically than most colleges. Suppose you are an interviewer and: Enter Joe Doe with long hair, bearded, clad in cut-offs and a cut-off sweatshirt and sandals. The interviewer is really impressed and also impressed with the other students he sees around the campus dressed the same way. WOW!

We suggest this: The students of the Engineering and Mangement departments, set up a code of dress that they think would be reasonable before the Administration sets one up and "lowers the boom". Suggestions should be put in the INFORMER suggestion boxes. Student Conduct and Grievance Committee

Dear ERAI Aviators:

Lately, I have been asking myself, "What is wrong with you guys?" I am a pilot who likes to fly about three times a week. I do most of my touch and go practice out of Ormond or New Smyrna. At both airports I have encountered ERAI traffic. Each time asking myself, "Do they just like to waste time or does it take them one and a half miles of final leg to line up with the runway? Could you make it if your engine quit way out there? I doubt it. Usually there isn't that much traffic out there. Shorten those patterns and gain four more landings per hour. Try to make it dead stick a couple of times. I think you will like the results.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

By Gary Anderson

I'm sure most students have noticed that some of the most familiar faces on campus from last trimester are missing. I've compiled a little list of those students who have not shown up and where they are.

Gomer Denk, the plucky student pilot who with only nine hours of flying time and a Cessna 150 set out for Trenton, New Jersey on December 21, is now being held for ransom by a group of Eskimoes in Nome, Alaska. Anyone wishing to contribute a fish to the "Save Gomer Fund" should contact the S.G.A.

Bronco Nitski, one of our star soccer players, is in the Halifax Hospital recovering from injuries sustained in a pillow fight with his wife last Saturday night. It seems Bronco is allergic to feathers.

Harry "Hoptoad" Hagerty is reported to have perfected his "Man Into Frog" serum and students are cautioned to walk carefully near the academic building grounds. We wouldn't want Harry to croak before he gets his Nobel Prize.

I'm sure that everyone here will join me in hoping that some of these lost sheep will escape, be parolled, released or reconverted in time to rejoin us before long.

CAMPUS GODS

Man is innately religious. He must have a God of some kind. We talk of God, but often we act as atheists. We have developed a sort of dual personality. On our coins we print the words "In God We Trust", but in our hearts we say "Me First". The problem arises when we try to compromise the biblical God with the God of our own making.

Today's college students profess faith in God but not a personal God. The tendency is to conglomerate what they feel God should be. Many students have their own Gods. Whatever you value most is your god. The commandment "Thou Shalt Not Have Any Other Gods Before Your God", means just that. If your chief object is sex, athletic prowess, or rebellion, then that is your God. You put that above all else. Therefore, thousands of students lack any genuine belief in God or in the moral values that sustain human society.

College students are perplexed with the contention between the existence of God and scientific and intellectual discoveries. The nuclear age has greatly reduced faith in the biblical universe and replaced it with scientific facts that have no need for God. The cultivated man today finds no God in his reactor, none through his telescope. He is not visible in outer space. So there is no God! That's like a little worm sticking his head out of the ground and saying, "I don't see Wernher Von Braun, so I don't believe in Wernher Von Braun".

We live in an age where emphasis is on prideful intellectualism. God's place is on early Sunday morning television which on one watches, and in church which few students attend. Never, never, in a school newspaper!

Just the same, I would like to attempt a weekly column of this type. I would appreciate comments and criticisms as well as any questions you might have. Direct to: The Anonymous Parson.

SPORTS

For the past two months the Daytona International Speedway has been the scene of intensive preparation for the February Speedweek races. Porsche, Alfa Romeo, the Howlet turbine car, Roger Penske's Camaro's, and Ford's high speed stockers have all been active. Much of this testing has been accomplished behind closed doors, but in three and a half weeks the success or non-success of their efforts will be highly publicized.

SUPER PORSCHE

For all of you road racing and porsche fans, a factory Porsche is now engaged in endurance testing at the speedway in preparation for the 24 Hours of Daytona to be held the first week of February. The car is equipped with a 2.2 liter eight cylinder engine and a five speed transmission. Drivers are team members Hans Hermann, Joachim Neerpash, and Rolf Stommelen. American Porsche driver Peter Greg is at the speedway also but it is not known whether he will drive.

On December 13th the car began a 24 hour test run. The track record for the 3.81 mile course was set by Dan Gurney in a 7 liter Ford MK II at 1:55.1, and the 2.2 liter Porsche has already turned in a time of 1.57.7.

On December 29th testing of Hewlet sponsored McKee-Continental turbine car will begin. Drivers are Dick Thompson and Ed Lowther.

SOCCER TROPHIES

There are a number of plaques in the trophy case in the Student Center. These plaques will be presented to the members of the 1967 Embry-Riddle Varsity Soccer Team. Those who will receive the plaques are: G. F. Vicars, Captain; K. W. Leach, Y. M. Tarkhan, T. Olalobo, W. Hoene, A. H. Mwabukusi, C. F. Hoefle, R. J. Roa, J. Martyn, Z. Ali, J. R. Gilbert, B. J. THE NEXT PHOENIX?

Whether or not Riddle's first yearbook is good is a matter of personal opinion. It is controversial. As of now there will be no yearbook for 1968. Attempts to create a staff have been unsuccessful. Unless a start is made this month, the yearbook is doomed. Experience is not necessary. No one on the 1967 staff had ever worked on a book before. If you want to work on the book, just check in at the S.G.A. office.

ER TO BEGIN SACS ACCREDITATION PROCEDURES

A team of men from the University of Florida will be on campus during the last week of January and the first week of February to make a preliminary inspection and to prepare the school for an inspection by members of the board of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The second inspection will determine Embry-Riddle's accreditation by the Association.

Results and recommendations from this preliminary inspection should be sent to the school by the middle of February. The regular inspection will be held during the last week in March.

In September or October the board will take its findings to the other members of the Association for consideration. A decision will be reached by November or December of this year. If the Association decides in favor of Embry-Riddle the accreditation will be effective as of this January.

Embry-Riddle is currently accredited by the Engineering Council for Professional Development and the Florida State University, which accepts provisional credit for courses completed in which grades achieved have been C or better. No credit can be transferred for technical or vocational subjects. However, with a full accreditation the University will accept transfer credits from Embry-Riddle without requiring a probationary period.

One group of men who receive very little praise or acknowledgment are the men who live most of their lives in a room with green tinted windows in place of walls. This room is at the top of a four story building and is full of all types of communications equipment.

These men are responsible for saving many lives each year. Advances in science have let their diligence and dedication be used to an even greater degree in the saving of lives.

The patience of these men is on display twenty-four hours a day at the Daytona Beach Airport. These men are continually frustrated by student pilots who think they are God's gifts to aviation. They put up with the same problems every day and never publicly complain. The mere thought of what one mistake on their part could do is more than enough strain for anyone.

Men with this job are alert every second of their working hours—certainly not an easy task in itself. We owe these men a debt of thanks for which they are justly due.
