what you should know about

How is cost determined?

Cost of a flight is determined by destination, number in your group and length of stay. Once the cost has been decided on, the amount is pro-rated—each participant paying the same amount as his fellow passengers. Remember, the larger the group the lower the cost per passenger. In this way, your group can take advantage of this low-cost transportation.

What groups are eligible?

According to CAB regulations, the following groups are eligible:

- Local social and fraternal clubs.
- Local church groups.
- Employee groups of industrial and mercantile firms.
- Government agency recreational associations.
- Local chapters of professional societies.
- College campus charters and college study groups.

What qualifications must a specific member of a group have?

CAB regulations require that a member, in order to qualify as a participant in a group flight, must have belonged to his group for at least six months.

Can wives and children be included in a group flight if the husband is a member of a group?

Yes. Members of the immediate household—husband, wife, children, parents may be eligible.

Are children required to pay the same pro-rated amount?

Children under 12 years of age may pay a lesser charge, if the group as a whole so decides.

Does the flight include land tours?

It does not. A group may employ the services of a travel agent to arrange land tours, hotels, etc. USOA will be happy to suggest travel agents who are experts in making these arrangements.

Is there a charge for this?

There is no charge for this service.

Are there any other charges?

None. The charter price includes...round trip flight, complimentary hot meals, gracious stewardesses to serve you and individual flight bags.

Must the group pay a tax?

There is no transportation tax on trips to foreign countries.

How many members are required to make a charter?

Large and small groups may be accommodated. A large group—up to 98 passengers. Smaller groups up to 70 passengers can be accommodated on our famous fleet of Douglas four-engine skyliners.

Are one-way passengers permitted on a round-trip flight?

No. Each plane load must fly as a unit in both directions. On rare occasions, this may be permissible depending on the reason and with the express permission of the CAB.

How does a qualified group go about organizing a charter flight for a low-cost vacation?

Although advertising such a flight is forbidden in mass media, such as newspapers, radio, etc., there are any number of ways to develop such a flight. (Sample suggestions of announcements and news items can be found attached).

Put up a notice on your bulletin board (See "A"). Insert news items in your organization's newspaper, house organ or periodical (See "B"). Make an announcement at your next meeting.

When an organization or a group within an organization evidences interest in a charter flight, a USOA representative will be happy to help you every step of the way. He will present a plan for your trip, destination, length of stay, cost, etc.

When does the group pay for the trip?

The group pays a down payment of 10% when the contracts between the group and USOA have been signed. The balance is paid in a lump sum or in installments, at mutually agreed dates. The complete balance should be paid 3 to 4 weeks prior to flight departure.
