

THE JOURNAL OF
DIGITAL FORENSICS, SECURITY AND LAW

Journal of Digital Forensics,
Security and Law

Volume 12 | Number 3

Article 2

9-2017

Editorial

Follow this and additional works at: <https://commons.erau.edu/jdfsl>

Part of the Computer Law Commons, and the Information Security Commons

Recommended Citation

(2017) "Editorial," Journal of Digital Forensics, Security and Law. Vol. 12 : No. 3 , Article 2.

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.15394/jdfsl.2017.1504>

Available at: <https://commons.erau.edu/jdfsl/vol12/iss3/2>

This Editorial is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Journal of Digital Forensics, Security and Law by an authorized administrator of Scholarly Commons. For more information, please contact commons@erau.edu.

(c)ADFSL

PREFACE

On behalf of the United States Consulate General in Yekaterinburg, I am pleased to greet the authors and readers of this publication, which came out of the International Symposium held at Perm State University on October 2016 on the topic of "Security of Individual, State and Society: Challenges and Perspectives." The vibrant sister-city relationship between Perm and Louisville that was established more than 20 years ago also has engendered a mutually beneficial partnership between Perm State University and the University of Louisville. The issues that were discussed at the Symposium remain on the cutting edge of the global-security agenda, and this symposium shows the importance maintaining dialogue between international experts and scholars has for facing our current challenges. I would like to use this occasion again to extend our congratulations to Perm State University on its 100th anniversary and extend wishes of prosperity and a continuation of the tradition of academic and scientific achievement.

Dr. Paul M. Carter, Jr.
U.S. Consul General
Yekaterinburg, Russian Federation

