ESCAPE FROM HELL

By Jonathan Bailey
AVION Staff Writer

One of the principal reasons why the Genoa plane hit the mountains was because the co-pilot was not able to understand the instructions, which is why he is no longer working as a pilot.

The plane was carrying a group of people who were on a sightseeing tour, but instead of flying over the mountains, they were headed towards a small airport.

The plane hit the mountains at a high speed, and the impact was catastrophic. All aboard the plane were killed.

The crash site is now a popular tourist attraction, and visitors can see the remnants of the plane and the surrounding mountains.

The plane was a small, single-engine aircraft, and it was carrying six people at the time of the accident.

The accident occurred in the early hours of the morning, and there were no survivors.

The crash site is located in a remote area, and it is difficult to access.

The results of the student survey given last spring have been tabulated and are shown in part in this issue. We will continue to print the responses to the various questions posed by students in future issues of the Avion. It was interesting to note that in most cases, these questions have been asked over and over by members of the student body for quite some time. I was surprised that the university response might be superficial at best but judging from the input I have received from the administration to far, a sincere effort is being made to answer the questions in a truthful and realistic manner. Another indication of the Administration's concern about student opinion is the question and answer segment beginning this Thursday in the Common Purpose Series. Now is the time to speak out if you have some heartfelt opinion about the way the University is run or a suggestion that would improve academic or campus life. We have been given an opportunity to address the decision makers directly with our problems, it's take advantage of it.

The Avion will be published weekly this summer for the first time. We are critically short of staff in all departments of the publication effort. Specific areas that are hurting are Photography and Reporters. If you have a camera and want to take pictures come in and see Chuck Henry. If you are interested in writing there is no better place to develop a little practical experience. Asian offers many interesting assignments on campus and in the immediate area. Come in and see us, and capitalize on this opportunity to broaden your horizons and make a little beer money in the bargain.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

What do you do if your student has school in the country and your facilities are not available for a percentage of the student body? This is a possible problem. Ronnie-Kelly might face if planes do not fit the flight crews and change days with the influx of the “new” students. In the past months of the semester the small group were where to get the girls who do not come from the school, transferring non-Enrollment, and so forth. In the American aviation world, how to set up a job location, how to use low end gas in school airplanes.

The “new” aviation students could be of 60, male or female. Homemakers or any other group. The students come in all shapes and sizes just to find the first, fast, thin, or broad-chested. How do we manage the restrictions we make concerning physical size, not the financial or other programs to the Florida Marine Corps Officer Selection Team for over three years. Now, open keeping the Florida for Oklahoma, I would like to, through the AVION, think those at Embry-Riddle that were so helpful in those three years.

I would also like to thank all the officers and staff of the “AVION” for the assistance given. Other students who have written and spoken to me about the Florida Marine Corps Officer Selection Team and recruiter for Marine Officer Programs here.

The annual meeting of the Space Congress was held in Cocoa Beach, Florida this past April. The meeting was the 16th of its kind, as an annual event designed to present the latest advances in aerospace technology and illuminate future developments and goals with respect to the space industry. The meetings were held April 20-24. The theme for this year's Space Congress: Space: The Next Step To Clones. A variety of topics were covered, including: Communications, technology transfer, advanced technology and programs, and international advances in space transportation. The final day of the Congress featured an open house at Patrick Air Force Base and the world famous flying team, Thunderbirds.

The highlight of the Space Congress came on the second day, April 22nd. A panel discussion, "Meet the Astronauts," was held that evening and was open to the public. Four Astronauts were the featured speakers. The discussion was moderated by the president of the Space Congress, Lee Scherbro, introduced the four as Astronauts Donald K. "Deke" Slayton, Young John, Fred Haise, and Al Worden. "Doc" Slayton was one of the original seven Mercury Astronauts selected in 1962. More recently, Slayton served as the

INTERNING AT J.U.B.

Gwynn, the Land of Many Waters, is located on the north-east coast of South America. It is the first cooperate society invented in the world. Gwynn became independent on May 29, 1965 and was declared a republic on February 23, 1970. The Prime Minister is L.C. Burnham. The society is bitterly democratic but seeks equitable distribution of wealth through cooperative. In economy is expanding after much racial violence and my country is working for economic cooperation among the Caribbean nations.

The people in Guyana are of a mixed biological make-up: African, European, East Indian, Chinese, Portuguese, and Amerindians. Slightly over half of the people are East Indian. Those Amerindians have brought from India to work on plantations. The same can be said of the Portuguese and the French. About 90 of every 100 can read and write. Gwynn children between the age of 6 and 15 are educated. Presently, all education is free. There is only one university in Guyana which is the University of Gwynn. Because of the variety of ethnic groups, there is no religious freedom for everyone to practice whichever religion he or she chooses. Gwynn is divided into three main regions: a coastal plain, the tropical forest, and the plateau. The coastal plain is further divided into three components, the Palo Alto plains, the Demerara plains, and the Demerara river, the latter the largest. The Palo Alto plains are flat and are the site of the plains town of four feet six inches in height. The coastal plains have been built up to keep out the sea and protect the people from the floods. Nearly seventy of the people live on the coastal land. Faceck are found there. The main crops are sugar, rice, and coffee. The coconut also plays an important part in a main crop because it is good for the manufacture of oil and other products.

Forest cover the plateau south of the coastal plains. The savannas cover about 25% of Gwynn and contain about 1000 square miles. The wood of the Greenheart Tree is used for making furniture and the wood of the Gwynn is used for making furniture and the wood of the Gwynn is used for making furniture and the wood of the Gwynn is used for making furniture and the wood of the Gwynn is used for making furniture. The area of Gwynn is 83,000 square miles. The people of Gwynn have a population of 897,000 people. The capital is Gwynn. The most important language in Gwynn is English. We boast of having the highest wooden building in the world at 600 feet high. The St. George's Cathedral.
INTRO TO RESULTS OF MARKETING QUESTIONNAIRE

ALICIA M. RIVARD
Vice-President
Marketing and Development

TO ALL STUDENTS:

The results of the Marketing/Development questionnaire undertaken this Spring have now come in. As we requested, you supplied answers that are clear in the light of the questionnaire that we sent. AMENDED is it an involving computer categories? of notes questions and replies.

But, we now have the raw data and, as promised, we will share it with you.

Before we show that, however, I would like to explain that interpretation of any survey data is a very delicate business. Unless one is very careful one could reach almost any conclusion he or she wished. The main purpose I wish to make is that the good and bad with you and work toward improving anything that you felt was a real problem.

Now that we have a good sample showing clearly how you students feel on the many subjects reviewed, we want to do something positive about items requiring action. Action is a two way street however and requires your concentrating interest as well as our. We are ready. Are you?

There are no secrets here. Although some students feel otherwise as I'll try the good and bad with you and work toward improving anything that you felt was a real problem.

Some of the data shows that we can improve our internal two way communication. Since I've heard about change of Public Relations and that additional internal reorganization I'll personally try to improve communication.

To those of you who participated in the survey please accept my thanks. There were many students, however, who were not satisfied with the opinions you did not participate however, to give you the results that were statistically valid. I wish everyone had participated.

Like always, some answers showed that certain students were only concerned with particular personal problems. There were also those students who did not like the responses. All considerations outside their immediate interest.

Starting on Thursday, May 18, at 8:00 A.M. and from 4 p.m. to 9 a.m. on Friday, May 19 and Saturday, May 20, the Vice President of Marketing and Development will be in the Student Center and available to discuss any of your concerns.

Yours sincerely,

ESCAPE FROM HELL

NASA's 10th Annual Program about Alcohol that is aimed at the audience. It is based on a series of intervention since alcohol in the socialh are is a pattern of crime situations like accidents, fights and crimes. Like many other employers, the Naval Base is now faced with the problem of alcohol abuse.

"Alcohol is the billion dollar hangover," Foley said.

He said that it is a "facilitator" to keep the discussions running sensibly. "We try not to have any put onners," he said. "We let students answer their own questions.

Foley emphasized to his students the importance of drinking responsibly. If you need to drink, he says, don't mix it with Plan B. "Don't get yourself in a position where you have to drink and drive."

Because he has been through it all, Foley feels he can help other recognize a potential problem. "I understand it because I've been there," he said, "I can relate to them and they can identify with me."

Sometimes, he said, it is frustrating to stand back and watch a young person struggle with alcohol. "You try so hard and there just isn't anything you can do," he said. "You can't deny the progress of becoming alcoholic."

If alcohol is an alcoholism, was a glooming experience for Dan Foley. He can tell other people what it was like, and what helped him, but everyone must find their own solutions.

"For those who don't understand, it's impossible to explain," said Foley. "For those who do... it's not necessary."

ASK YOURSELF THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS

YES NO
1. Do you lose time from school because of drinking?
2. Do you drink to lose weight and build up self-confidence?
3. Do you drink affecting your capabilities?
4. Do you drink to escape from study or home worries?
5. Does it bother you if somebody drinks when you think you drink too much?
6. Do you have to take a drink in order to get out of a diet?
7. Do you ever get into money trouble over buying liquor?
8. Are you losing friends since you've started drinking?
9. Do you hang out with a crowd where stuff is easy to get?
10. Do your friends drink beer than you do?
11. Do you drink until the bottle is empty?
12. Have you ever had a loss of memory from drinking?
13. Do any of your friends drink when you're in a hospital or a jail?
14. Do you get anxious with 12 classes or lectures on drinking?
15. Do you think you have a problem with liquor?

If you answer yes to the majority of the questions was "yes," perhaps you need to take a closer look at the facts.

Saying that you are too young to be an alcoholic is an excuse that is simply not true. Even from every 20 juveniles who drink socially, 10 of them are alcoholics. For the adult population, the figure is doubled.

Anyone who is old enough to drink alcohol is old enough to become an alcoholic. What is an alcoholic? An alcoholic is "a person who depends on alcohol to meet his life's functions," said Dr. Charles M. Unkovic, chairman of the Sociology Department.

According to Unkovic, an alcoholic drinker nine times as much as other people. It does not take long for a young person to develop a problem with alcohol. "Because of the biological nature of his body," he said, "he can become an alcoholic in six months." Unkovic said.

The trend away from drugs and toward alcohol may be because most young people see their parents drinking, and they know it is legal. "Many of the parents are shocked when they find out their children are alcoholics," Unkovic said. "They're probably part of the problem."

He explained that children learn their drinking habits from their parents. Unkovic said parents should teach their offspring to drink responsibly. It does not matter what you drink. Any alcoholic substance can create a dependency. 250-ounce bottle of beer, a Bourbon glass of wine and a 1/2 ounce shot of whiskey all contain about the same amount of alcohol. Of course, not every person who drinks will become an alcoholic. Many people can drink socially and have no problem at all.

If you think you have a problem with alcohol, try attending one of the local Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. It is located at the Foote Court, Daytona Beach, Florida 253 1000.

SOMETHING NEW

This summer the AVION will begin a new section of the paper devoted to chronicle. Once Embry-Riddle students are usually short of both free time and money for parry. myself included, a new column will be written going into about what's happening around town. Various aspects of life will be included, such as restaurants, lounges, diners, sports, and any other special events. As many places as possible will be reviewed to give you a good idea what it will be like before you get there - price, atmosphere, menu, location, etc. If you know of a unique place or it's just somewhere that you would recommend to other students, please bring your ideas up to the AVION office on th second floor of the University Center. We hope that this column will help you out, and enjoy your free time away from school to the maximum.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCE CLUB BEGINS TONIGHT

You've learned a Yomemite dance in kibbutz, you've learned a Greek dance at a nuptial wedding celeb ration, and a German dance at a fiftieth wedding celebra tion. Put them all together and you've an International Folk Dance Peo ple of all nationalities have been gathering in many cities and remote towns throughout the world. For the past years now to learn each other's ethnic customs and to learn from one another.

The dances will be held several times a year at Embry-Riddle. Sean Horvath has been each dance with 7:30 to 8:30 each Wednesday night followed by a program of review and request dancing till 10:00 p.m. The inocula tion sessions will start at the beginner level. A few of each 55.55 per person is requested for instruction each night.

It is the hope of the faculty adviser, Jules Gandelman, that this activity will become a student managed club open to all students, staff, faculty and the community. This club actually started with an interest in our foreign students to share some of their culture.

Susan Horvath has been folk dancing for over two years. She attended every year with the Dance Club and traveled to workshops and seminars in the United States, Bahamas, Latin America and Europe. Susan is a recognized and respected dancer, bringing herself learned from world famous instructors. Susan prides herself in keeping the dances traditional and authentic. She stresses style only after the steps are learned.

It is not necessary to bring a partner. Most folk dances are performed from a line or circle formation. Bring YOURSELF and enjoy ENTER.

It's a great way to get your exercise and have an evening of fun.

For further information contact Jules Gandelman at Ext. 364.
