FOCUS CAST ON PRODUCTS OF MISSION

While Americans and their spacecraft were busy landing on the moon, some other events in the space program were drawing headlines. At the Los Angeles Coliseum, for example, three of the astronauts of the Apollo 11 mission were giving a press conference to answer questions about their flight. And at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, the team that had designed the Apollo 11 spacecraft was busy at work on the next mission. These events were described in detail in the newspapers.

Letters to the Editor

It's good to read some real investigative reporting from the Airm. I was aware at the time of the awards banquet and to the best of my knowledge Evergreen was appointed by the Senate to address and try gifts for the members of the awards and the executive cabinet. This last meeting was a moving one emotionally because Evergreen had put aside work into the work she was doing and then Mike Frank, and Lulu decided they would find gifts for everyone instead. The reason for this as stated by Mike was that he was sick of receiving gifts and having them hang from his office walls and that this time he wanted a personalized gift he could use. As of about this time, it was decided not to have the banquet at a restaurant as planned, but at Mike's house instead. (If you would like to have a real inconvenience to&b that big craftsman saw in the restaurant). The meeting was adjourned and this matter was dropped in the Airm. office where there was confirmed by the dictionary. honestly replied that if some members of the organization would be offended if they didn't receive as nice gifts as themselves also. Mike continued to argue against standardization of gifts and replied that he had pretty good judgment and he could not find and present gifts that were sold for such personal, professional to the amount of work that they did there prior to the year. I didn't attend the awards banquet, so I wasn't aware that Mike and Frank awarded themselves so drastically for being treated as university property and students.

This is, their non-investment destiny furniture and other permanent fixtures in the ROOMS, and they place fellow students in danger by recklessness.

TOM CAMPAGNOLA

TO THE EDITOR,

As a commuting student and dormitory resident (5 nights a week), I am getting a bit disgusted with the inevitability and insidious lack of consideration that particular students are showing.

These students seem to live in the wake of funk and parties no matter what the center of university property and students.

This is, their non-investment destiny furniture and other permanent fixtures in the ROOMS, and they place fellow students in danger by recklessness.

I'm writing to express my disapproval of the lack of care and respect from the students who live in the dormitories.

Sincerely,

A Student

President's Corner

Once again, the end of the fall is here. It has been a hectic summer for the Student Government. Our Student Government has been working hard the last year. What have we done? Where are we now? How do we feel? Thank you all for putting up with the trials and tribulations of student government. We hope to continue the same level of work next year. The Student Government has been very busy, and we have tried to keep up with the demands of the college. We have tried to keep up with the demands of the college. We have tried to keep up with the demands of the college.

Waterbeds are strong.

Of course we don't recommend parking your car on a waterbed. Waterbeds were developed for only one reason: Giving you the ultimate in comfortable sleep. A waterbed night's sleep is what a waterbed is all about. They are unique in a variety of style designs to complement your bedroom décor. But the most important, when equipped with a Sallies waterbed heater, waterbeds give you a great night's sleep. To test drive a waterbed... see us.

Since there will be no more papers this term, this will be your last chance to read this really exciting course. There will be a full-length for all that are interested, so it's a good idea to come for some fun in the last week's session.

Last week's session was Rick Gibson, who talked about "The Business of Education," and then Jay Emerson, who had a full house! Each session was well-attended. Each talk was well-attended. Each talk was well-attended.
