Two men, Air Commodore Sir Frank Whittle and Dr. Hans Joachim Fell, have been awarded the National Business Aircraft Association, Inc. (NBA) Meritorious Service Award for 1960. They will be honored by the NBA at its annual awards dinner on September 24, 1960, during the association's annual meeting in Kansas City, MO.

The award has been given since 1950 to some of the most noteworthy contributors to the advancement of aviation. Some of the honorees in past years include Charles Lindbergh, Eddie Rickenbacker, Jett Silbey, and James Doolittle. The 1970 winner was Dr. Charles Bryan Draper Jr. of "Bulldog of industry." Whittle and Obholz both worked on jet engine development between the two world wars; neither, however, nor their companies, were ever directly connected to the jet engine. Whittle worked on jet engines in the 1930's, while Obholz worked on rocket engines in the 1950's. The award is given for contributions to the advancement of aviation.

The LRC has implemented new policies. Effective immediately, these policies are in addition to the existing ones. The new policy is to allow only one transaction per day. This will be enforced at the discretion of the management.

The lessons learned center around the need for more information and better organization. The new policy is designed to address these issues.

The transcript evaluators are trained to identify and correct errors in the transcriptions. Their work is essential to ensuring the accuracy of the final product.

The Red Tape Committee is responsible for addressing issues related to the Red Tape policy. Their efforts are focused on reducing unnecessary red tape and improving efficiency.

Feminist Movement in Islam

by Ilham Chaudri

The position of women under Islamic rule has been the subject of repeated controversy among educated Muslims ever since they came under the impact of Western civilization. No document shows that the word "woman" reached Islam in the total sense of the word, in which it makes all Islamic women equal. At all times, women have been considered as "gigly nightwatches" whose unspoken physiological makeup and public function is to give birth to "allah's" children. (When Islam appeared in Arabia, women were considered as a very low position in society. It was thought that if a woman were, then the Prophet would also have been a woman. In order to determine the role of women in Islam, one should look at the word "woman" in the Holy Prophet which disallows one to think that women were inferior to men. The Qur'an exhorts the dignity of woman by declaring: "Whoever you are and you are a woman for, it is not for your beauty. It is not for your dress and hair. It is not for your hand, or child or to wash your clothes. A woman refuses to do any of these things. It is not for your beauty. The Prophet has made a ground of legal complaint against the people who think that women are not equal to men in Islam..."

In regard to domestic duties, women are seen as the main of all male duties. According to the Qur'an, it is not for your beauty. It is not for your dress and hair. It is not for your hand, or child or to wash your clothes. A woman refuses to do any of these things. It is not for your beauty. The Prophet has made a ground of legal complaint against the people who think that women are not equal to men in Islam..."

The quality of academic counseling is the subject of this week's report, by the Academic Counselor. This week's topic is a case study. The case involves a student, John, who is enrolled in the Medical School program. John has been struggling with his grades and is considering dropping out.

John's situation is made more challenging by the fact that he is a second-year student and has already invested a significant amount of time and money into his education. His family is also very concerned about his decision and have expressed their support for him to continue.

The Academic Counselor, Dr. Smith, has been working with John for several weeks and has developed a plan to help him improve his grades and stay in the program. The plan includes

- A regularly scheduled meeting with Dr. Smith to discuss John's progress and any concerns he may have.
- Access to additional academic support services, such as tutoring and study groups.
- Regular feedback from Dr. Smith on John's progress and progress towards meeting his academic goals.

Dr. Smith believes that with the right support and guidance, John can turn his situation around and continue his education. The Academic Counselor encourages other students who may be facing similar challenges to seek help and support from their academic advisors.

The Academic Counselor also highlights the importance of academic counseling and the role it plays in supporting students' academic success.

In conclusion, the Academic Counselor believes that academic counseling is crucial in helping students navigate their academic journey and achieve their goals. Students who are facing academic challenges should not hesitate to seek help and support from their academic counselors.
Giant Sloth to be Displayed This Fall

By Donal Blythe
Aston Staff Reporter

What is 16-50 feet tall, eight feet wide, 20 feet long and between three and five tons heavy and one of the earliest residents of Valrico County? It’s a giant ground sloth or Eremotherium giganteus as it is scientifically classified. George Blythe, a member of the E-R oval’s staff department had been involved in the sloth project from almost the beginning.

The remains of the giant ground sloth were first discovered in October 1525 by the combined efforts of John Sibley, a 73-year-old neighbor who was extensively interested in fossil collecting, and proper A. A. A., a friend of Dr. Blythe. Roger reported seeing a giant bone that had been exposed by a road crossing near a country-owned gravel pit. Blythe and Sibley, the two men, were back at the site next morning with a small bone.

George Blythe stated that the giant ground sloth was a very large animal, and that the fossil remains that were found were valuable. The bone was a large piece of the femur, and the team continued to find more bones that were just as large.

In order for fossilization to take place, an organism must have lived parts, and be buried rapidly. A sloth, lying in a mound filled with the environment, and the remains will not the characteristics of a prehistoric animal.

According to Dr. George Sibley, Director of the paleontology at the Royal Ontario Museum in Canada, the Valrico County giant ground sloth is the best preserved and most complete fossil of its kind in North America. It has been called a major scientific discovery.

Prior to this finding, the giant ground sloth fossils were found in Central and South America. Fossil fragments of giant ground sloths have been found in Central, Texas, Colombia, Florida, and South Carolina. It is believed that the sloth existed in the mid- to late Holocene period, which is now about 10,000 to 200,000 years ago.

The sloth family includes four genera: one in South America, another in Central America, another in North America, and another in Europe.

The sloth fossil was brought to the attention of the public by the sloth fossil expert from the New Smyrna Beach Museum of Art and Science who was present at the site. The public was able to see the fossil in person.

The New Smyrna Beach Museum of Art and Science is now open to the public and is located at 700 South Atlantic Avenue, New Smyrna Beach, Florida. The museum is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and is free to the public.

Warm Up and Warm Down

Warming up your body to prepare for more strenuous exercise is very important in the prevention of muscle injuries and severe muscle soreness. In order to warm-up the muscles properly, train your exercise program gradually with the light stretching exercises described in this article.

Slowly improve the pace and intensity of the stretches until your body begins to feel loose and warm. Propriety is an excellent condition that your muscles are indeed warm and "ready" to endure more intense exercise. Since each person is at a different level of fitness, the amount of time spent warming up will vary with each person. Some people will need at least fifteen minutes of warming up, others will require more time; and a few can get by on less.

Once proprioception is a good indication of your readiness to take more strenuous exercise, let's see how it occurs. Proprioception occurs when your normal body temperature rises because of the increase in blood and muscle temperatures. This increase is important in order to prepare your muscles properly so that you are less likely to sustain injury or severe soreness. Because the flexibility, endurance, and strength exercises you will complete stress on the muscles, we cannot emphasize enough the importance of the warm-up.

Aside from the prevention of severe muscle soreness and injury, a thorough warm-up brings other benefits. For instance, since the blood and muscle temperatures have been increased, the stretching of the muscles improves and this will help your muscles relax during this activity. A warm-up, and stretching of muscles is what you wish in weight loss. Frames with dress would not stop an uncomfortable by running at it 70 miles an hour into a tree.

Quick Tips Given for Jogging

1. Don't push too hard. Recognize your limits and do what feels good.
2. Use comfortable clothing and shoes.
3. The start, do it on a soft surface.
4. Never after a big meal. Wait with it at least 4 times per meal.
5. Always do some stretching before and after each jog.
6. Keep it fun - jog around your limits. Don't live around your jogging.

WARM UPS MAKE IT A TWO PART PROCESS

Warm-ups should be in two parts. First, the stretching of your muscles and joints before you start jogging. Second, is the actual warm-up. When warm-ups, you're going to use to while jogging; the cardiovascular center big muscle.

This is done by giving you your body, allowing you're heart to be become adjusted to new demands you are putting on it before picking up your pace. This will usually take from 5-10 minutes.
