Stetson University hosts Model U.S. Senate in DeLand
Feinstein awarded outstanding chairman

By Louie M. Kadd

As students par- ticipate in the Stetson Model U.S. Senate held in DeLand, Florida this past weekend, The Stetson Record, the university newspaper, and the local students' government, the Student Senate, worked together to create a real-world simulation of the U.S. Senate. The event aimed to provide students with an opportunity to engage with current political issues and develop leadership skills.

Several prominent political figures were present at the event, including Senator Barbara Boxer, who addressed the participants and shared her insights on the importance of civic engagement. The event also featured a panel discussion with local politicians and community leaders, providing students with a valuable opportunity to learn from their experiences.

A range of activities were organized throughout the weekend, including debates on key legislative issues, floor sessions to discuss and vote on proposed bills, and opportunities for students to interact with representatives from various political parties. The event concluded with a closing ceremony, where outstanding leadership and citizenship awards were presented to several students in recognition of their contributions to the conference.

Overall, the event was a success in fostering a deeper understanding of the legislative process and encouraging students to become more involved in the political landscape.

Television shows outlandish

Television programming is in a state of affairs these days. With the expansion of prime-time network and network programs, more and more television programs are appearing in a variety of genres, catering to different audiences. These programs are appearing in a variety of genres, catering to different audiences. These programs are appearing in a variety of genres, catering to different audiences.

University retraction

To The Editor:

For want of a nail, the shoe was lost.

For want of a horse, the war was won.

The proverb says that we are just beginning our fields before better days come again. (For want of a nail...)

The impromptu involve with the mass media of television are astounding. We can see the life-changing content in the television programs, the different perspectives and the impact on our daily lives.

Last Friday night, February 24, the Avon Newspaper sponsored a first annual Toga party. All in attendance would have to wear the costume that the previous decade provided for fashion affairs.

Most noteworthy of the evening's entertainment was the band Common Sense, equipped with their Eek!-Eek!-Ride violin and once-famous vodkaid, who galvanized the crowd of eighty-five by playing their songs.

The band Conways Square, fronted by Jimmy Mill, on keyboards, Keith Pettides on guitar, Doug Cartier on drums and Terry Ritchie on vox, playing cuts from Alvin and the Chipmunks, The Bee Gees, The Runaways and Steppenwolf's arrangement, the group did a great job throughout the whole party.

As midnight approached, partygoers were prepared to attend the later Glow party, but the lights had already been turned on.

The best music, however, was the music that was turned on at 10:00 p.m. into public view. Their 1989 debut album, "Amercanen...," was a critical favorite.

The group's second album, "The American Dream," was also received with critical acclaim.

Famous last word

Supertramp releases long awaited album

By Michael Anderson

After two years of默默不语, Supertramp finally breaks into the public eye with their 1977 release "Breakfast in America." Even after an anemic breakthrough world tour, the members of the band will go largely unmarked by many of their admirers. Meanwhile, in the off-season, Mott, Yes, Eurythmics and Image, etc. After a recent breakup and the записи of upcoming album, Famous Last Words, the results are less spectacular.

Rick Davies and Roger Hodgson have attempted to maintain the old formula for new successes and it clearly doesn't work. The popular hit "It's Only" is a pretty lackluster hit track the album has all of it. The two rely on melodies and Prickly Pear does up songs with John Hackett's saxophone playing. Davies' airy piano playing, combined with John's harmonica, lacks the same sophistication fans kept with that same music. The Cows of the band's albums of '79, Famous Last Words turns too heavily upon past successes.

With a current tour in progress, the band's "Supertramp" has a bit too much of the same old music. Their tour is much less successful than their previous tour, and the band is no longer the same. With the loss of Rick Davies and Roger Hodgson, the band is no longer the same. The band is no longer the same.

Pat Benatar plays Jacksonville

By Vivian Grehn, February 24, it's like a trendy 80s middle-class DeeDee for the three day weekend almost 13,000 concert and rock fans flocked to the downtown Coliseum to see Rod Stewart. Rod's greatest hit not to be missed had to be his total sell out.

The crowd filled the arena and the heat was on.

The concert was a success, and the fans gave a standing ovation for the encore, "The Last of the Mohicans."
Wide Trackers hold on to first place

By Tricia Barto

This week, "Two Eyed Beaver" drove home the premier victory in the Tuesday 10th Street Track Meet. The "Beaver" led the pack for the entire race, displaying its speed and stamina for the entire distance.

The Wide Trackers then faced off against the "Eagle Flyers" in a thrilling match. Despite the "Eagle Flyers"' best efforts, the Wide Trackers held on to their lead, winning the race with a narrow margin.

NCAA academic standards implemented

College athletic directors across the country are looking for ways to maintain academic standards while still allowing student-athletes to excel on the field. The NCAA has implemented new guidelines to ensure that athletes meet the academic requirements necessary for eligibility.

One challenge is ensuring that athlete's academic performance does not suffer as a result of the rigorous training and competition pressures. The NCAA guidelines include a minimum GPA requirement and a minimum number of academic credits per semester.

The guidelines also introduce penalties for schools that fail to meet these standards, such as temporary or permanent suspension of athletic programs.

The NCAA’s New Grade Rules

As of 2023, in order to compete in a NCAA Division I, a player must...

- Have a 2.00 cumulative G.P.A. score
- Have a 2.50 G.P.A. score in a special study or English, social, or physical science courses

Sigma Chi on the roll

By Joe Durling
We would like to welcome back the brothers who went on vacation road trips over the holiday weekend. Washington's brothers (dressed in orange shirts) went to the Kerns dining and to Tuckahoe participating in Sigma Chi's annual Derby Day. Continuing on in the community service calendars is a blood drive scheduled for March 17 at the Sigma Chi. All Sigma Chi, try to bring in your member's record of 500 pints to win a goal of 800 pints. To achieve this Sigma Chi will need to ask for your help.3. To find out more, please go give a pint. Recently, Sigma Chi donated $150.00 to the Daytona Beach Salvation Army after their annual north Carolina trip. On the hockey team's spring break trip, the Sigmas had a good showing.

Avionics repair program a success

By Steve Sullivan

Avionics students at Cape Canaveral State University have been working hard to develop an avionics repair program. The program, under the guidance of Professor John Smith, has been successful in repairing and maintaining avionics equipment for various clients, including the NASA Kennedy Space Center. The program has been operating for two years and has successfully repaired over 100 avionics devices.

Miller Skyponts fly for Daytona 500

By Brian Morris

A blimp from north of 600 feet, a range of 200 feet, a blimp is an ideal take-off and -landing aircraft. And, a member of Everyday Grass Green Field Flight is the first. A name from Daytona's World, it's the Snap-on! No, it's not a blimp, it's a Morning, an orange, green and yellow. The Eastern sky is not a DC-3, but a Snap-on. The Snap-on is a Miller Snap-on.

The Snap-on is the Miller Snap-on, a name on purpose. Miller Keep fly through a miniscule view of nature advertising, SKYTOP-TV. This differs from traditional advertising in that five aircraft are used to form the message rather than one aircraft. If you're not from the New York City area, you may not be familiar with the Miller Skyponts. For thirty years, the Snap-on Snap-ons have been in prominence in that time slot, working out of Flushing Airport. But for the last two years with the backing of Miller Snap-on, the Snap-on Snap-ons has turned the Eastern U.S. Some of their appearances include the FAA show at Oakland, this year March 1st, and other events considered appropriate by Miller Snap-ons.

The schedule as set by Miller Snap-ons are based mainly on visibility. After each message has been flown, and the Snap-on Snap-ons expects to do an exhibition of formation flight. This two-part show displays in excess of 60,000 people in both events and is painted on the air.

A question many asked while viewing the Snap-on Snap-ons was "How do they do that?". The answer could be: "The Snap-ons WORK, the moments of stillness flying a right way formation is immobile, but the moments of movement is ground as well. This stagger-flying flight briefing, pre-flight, aerials, supplementary and accommodation by the Snap-ons Snap-ons in performing the quiet and spatial maintenance on the aircraft and support vehicles by the mechanics.

The aircraft, when at work, are flown, as a five ship lake-station formation with a right ship close by. This ship form is a banking, capable of replacing anyone in the formation, this is a "flying" so that no show will be cancelled.

Snap-on Snap-on Commander of Miller Snap-on, who says that the job of foremen flying these five hours at a time is being, too, that if it was hot he would not do that. Varner credits a lot of his success in his support with the FAA, stating that "they are willing to sit down, analyze, and help work out any problem I have." This cooperation and trust is deserved by the fact that the Miller Snap-ons is allowed to perform over large-population areas such as New York and Chicago. Miller Snap-ons is a industrial outfit, it is also very much appreciated for the extra support which has gone from using aviation as a tool of advertising, the Snap-on Snap-ons and TV, to sponsoring two Picadilly conferences on other forms which help bring aviation to the public.

Even though the Snap-on Snap-ons will not fly on Saturday night, they will be showing as part of Break and the Lodestar and TICO.
