Engineering building out; Stewardess school is in

By Tiny Juan
Editor Wannabe

Over 2,000 students at Empty-Diddle Aeronautical University's Daytona Beach campus have transferred to EDAU West in Prescott, Hairyzona. This is because EDAU is offering a new "Stewardess" training program over there to entice female students to attend EDAU.

Now, President Stevie Slimey has decided to cancel the Engineering building and instead build an $11.5 Million Stewardish training building.

Slimey identified declining enrillments along with the low ratio of chicks to dudes at the Daytona campus as the main thrusts as to why this program will be brought to our most excellent campus.

The lack of jobs for Empty-Diddle engineers was also a factor in the decision to do away with the building.

"There are no jobs out there right now, it realy, realy sucks," says Slimey. "We just figured 'what the hell, lets build a stewardess school' and decided to use the money for a new stewardess school building. The government doesn't mind, so who cares. It should make most guys happy."

Dean Ricketty told the Avioff that he expects crime on campus to decrease as the students' libido and testosterone levels diminish.

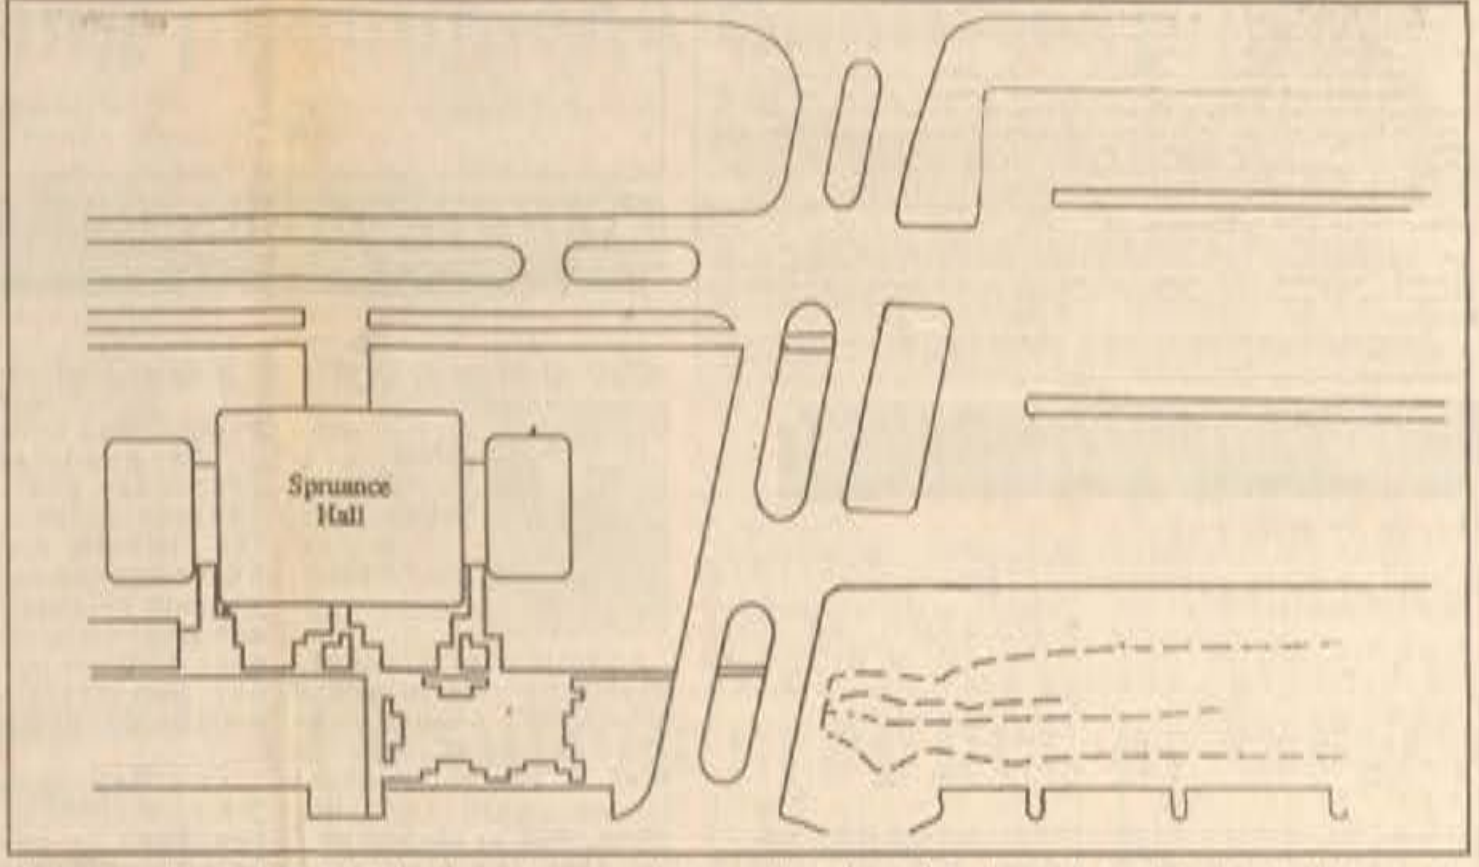

He added, although it is not guaranteed that a more mixed student body sexually will improve life at EDAU, many students have been transferring because they want to go to school with more chicks.

A prominent student leader, Stevie B. said, "I agree! I guess it could be workable, we are the leader in aviation. I know there is going to be an overwhelming vote. I guess the women at the school wouldn't be very happy because now they'll get some competition."

Indeed, students have been complaining about the ratio of males to females at EDAU for years. But, maybe these clueless dudes might just realize that there's plenty of party people down at the beach and all they've got to do is haul their carcasses over there to have some fun!

But, this new program shows the commitment EDAU has towards educational excellence. Dr. Abie Harricass of the BS department said, "We feel strongly in a co-educational program in the training of high quality stewardesses. We feel strongly that in-flight services are a growth sector of aviation today."

Slimey added, "I think pretty women would be great to have around. Of course they'd be here to gain an education first," Slimey feels the move is worthwhile, so he's doing it regardless of what those little pesky people think out there at Press-snoots, AZ.

The new stewardess school, shown in gray above, will replace the planned engineering building and will feature stewardess dorm rooms, jacuzies, saunas and possibly a massage parlor. The University expects moral to go up and predicts a 400 percent increase in enrolment.

Empty-Diddle offers adult courses

By Boydasaurus
I'm looking for a job

SS-169: An Exploration into Adult Social Sciences has been added to this fall's schedule after careful consideration by the Social Science Department. "It is our sincere feeling that in a mature, professional environment such as Embry-Riddle that programs like this are necessary," said Hon Treblebeck, department chair. Treblebeck went on to say "that here at Diddle we have a lot of older students, many of them are even married. In a small sect, such as the aeronautical community, these students will often stay with each other for the rest of their lives."

The proposed syllabus includes guest appearances from Dr. Ruth, tours of a condom factory, and several group projects. Due to the nature of the course much of the work will be done in a report type nature, with oral presentations being encouraged.

The text for the course is still being mulled over. "Dr. Ruth's book is, of course, being considered as the main manual for the course. Her book has the best reputation and is widely recognized. Supplemental texts may include 365 Variations and Positions for Lovers, The Birds and The Bees Made Easy and Karma Sutra, the ancient Hindu text."

Students anticipating taking the course should anticipate taking Psychology of Intimate Relationships and should be in good physical shape.

Weekly lab sessions will be offered as well, although attendance at these will not be mandatory. Technique and style will be covered in the labs with opportunity for questions.

The Flight department has also jumped on the Social Sciences bandwagon, and is offering the new FA 469: Certified Sex Instructor course.

Students will receive their CSI at the end of the course and will be able to teach introductory, advanced and intrument sexual intercourse.

plane are so small). They also get a set of cassettes that they use while flying. In the deluxe set the studnets even get a "bitch-out" cassette which gives the studnet the soothing sounds of an instructor ripping him a new one when he makes a mistake.

After flight training, an instructor comes out to the studnets house and evaluates his performance. Topics like collision avoidance (or how to get the airplane out of the garage) and flight performance (or how to get it up) are discussed and evaluated. After successfully completing this part of the course the studnet has graduated and receives his diploma (suitable for framing or wrapping fish).

Sleestack announces AMT/Flight take-home correspondence course

By Clyde
Mini Golf Guru

Today, after announcing that Empty-Griddle was 1,000,000 dollars in debt, President Sleestack announced that the school was going to offer a correspondence course in AMT/Flight. Upon questioning, Sleestack announced "Hey, we gotta do something; our bank, Guido Savings and loanshark expects payment next month!"

The new curriculum allows Empty-Griddle "studnets" to earn the necessary ratings without having to come to any campus.

"The reason why we chose AMT and Flight together," explained Sleestack as he shifted in his chair, which made that evil fart noise, "is that we needed a way to get a plane out to the studnet. So why not have him build it as a kit!"

The first course costs $3,000. After the paperwork has been approved through admissions, the cashiers office, financial laid (where you usually get screwed), flight department, AMT department, Security and the ghost of John Paul Griddle, the first package is sent to the studnet via third class mail.

The first course is called "tires are your friends." The course package contains three tires and a foot pump. The coloring book provided with the course explains how to inflate those tires properly.

Throughout out the course the studnet builds the airplane. "They even learn the secrets of saving money," said Sleestack as he walked under his desk. "Even how to replace that expensive red hydraulic fluid in the brake system with cherry Koot-Aid and how the lycoming engine can be replaced with a Yugo engine. It is truly a real hands on course."

After the plane is built, an Empty-Griddle inspector is flown out to inspect the handiwork of the student. All flights, which are booked through Las Vegas no matter where the destination is, are paid by the Studnet.

"The inspector looks at the plane and gives it the TORO Test," said Sleestack while looking at Miss November. "In other words, if its starts on the first pull of the cord, it is set to go."

After the plane is certified, the flight training starts. "We have discovered a way to save the student more money," bellowed Sleestack from his bathroom between flushes "through the use of inflatable doll instructors.

According to the depressed release, A Griddle studnet gets one of these dolls, a patch kit and some lubricant (since the seats in the

WHAT'S THE PROBLEM? WHAT IS EVEN MORE DISTURBING IS THAT THE ROCKET SCIENTIST HAD THE ABORTION

WHAT DOES THIS SAY TO OUR YOUNG TEENAGERS AND ADULTS WHO THINK IT IS ALL RIGHT TO HAVE PREMARITAL SEX THEN HAVE AN ABORTION?

IT IS DISGUSTING THAT THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES, IN SUCH A BOLD MOVE, WOULD PROVE TO THE WORLD THAT ABORTIONS ARE STILL LEGAL IN AMERICA AND

CAN BE PERFORMED ANYWHERE.

FOR THAT REASON ALONE THE SPACE SHUTTLE PROGRAM SHOULD BE CANCELED BUT, THAT IS NOT THE ONLY REASON THAT THE SHUTTLE SHOULD BE GROUNDED PERMANENTLY.

LET US RECALL HOW MUCH IT COSTS TO GO TO THE BATHROOM IN SPACE ABOARD THE SHUTTLE. $23 MILLION!

NOW I KNOW THAT SOME ESTABLISHMENTS MAKE CUSTOMERS PAY TO USE THE FACILITIES, BUT WHAT ASTRONAUT CARRIES THAT KIND OF MONEY AROUND? NONE THAT I KNOW.

GONADS invade campus

By Joe Galba
Section Editor

Phil McKraken, a national representative for GONADS, will be visiting the Embry-Riddle campus in the up and coming weeks. He is in search of the select few who poses the qualifications for membership. GONADS (General Organization for Non Appreciated Diverse Sexualities) was established a really long time ago. GONADS had large chapters in a couple of really swinging cities called Sodom and Gomorra. Unfortunately, legend has it that both cities were destroyed in disgust by a narrow minded being called God. But lucky for humanity in general some of the key members survived to carry on the noble tradition.

McKraken claims most people are afraid of GONADS, because they are ignorant. GONADS get up, go to work, have dinner at home most of the time, live with the deviants they love, visit other GONADS, clean house, pay bills, rewire lamps, and have Christmas dinner with their parents (those parents who will admit that their children exist, that is) some are waiters, there are some in almost every occupation you can think of. Some watch T.V. while others chase sheep. Some like Big Macs while others eat gourmet food. Some read popular magazines while others read the latest kiddie porn.

In short, McKraken says people should not be offended by GONADS because they have been around a long long time and most people know a GONAD and don't even realize it.

As far as the morality of the issue, McKraken states, "social morality is fine when it prevents murder, rape, assault, theft and maintains any other of the laws which are based on Christian morality, we stand by the laws that keep us from getting beat up but, otherwise, morals don't apply to us GONADS."

McKraken is looking for members who believe that anything that feels good is ok. Gay And Lesbians Bisexuals Are the major contributors to the GONADS membership. Since activities for pedophiles and animal "lovers", sadly, have been made illegal (people with these tendencies are welcome by GONADS anyhow).

The way GONADS deal with the social disquietude is to pretty much hide out, "we have box numbers off campus where people can contact us, this doesn't mean that we are ashamed, just discreet" says McKraken. "We look forward to gaining popularity on campus whether we are appreciated or not the constitution gives us the right to free speech, so students will just have to cope."

The executive GONADS pose reluctantly they maintain, however, that they are proud of who they are, and what they stand for. The reason for the bags claims the spokesperson is so students will be surprised by their identities when they join the club.

Fate and other irritating phenomena finally explained

By Bambi Blinksalot
Campus Snooze Editor

For those who don't know why bad things happen to good people, this story will clear up allot.

It began a long time ago in the city of Penzance, with a man called the Piper.

In the city of Penzance there was a problem with rats. The piper was called upon for his ability to hypnotize anything that could hear his flute. While under the hypnotic spell, the piper contrived to lead the rats into a lake.

What nobody knew then, was that the piper was a immortal, omnipresent being who thrives on mean hearted tricks.

The piper no longer does pest control, he has stepped into the modern day and provides discomfort for everybody with the benefit of glitchy technology and basic human foibles.

He is the sad that balances the happy, the yin for the yang, the hangerover from the most glorious drunk.

If you get really wasted and wake up with someone that resembles the severed head of a horse, blame the piper.

The following is a list compiled by a guy who has met adversity, and survived through his knowledge of the way the piper works.

The list is formally called "The Postulates Of The Piper" and is presented in abridged form for your use.

•The piper gains on many people in many places at the same time, but will never be gained on himself.

•The piper is not racist he gains on everyone regardless of color, religion, or political affiliation.

•The piper is of essence evil.

•When the piper gains it is never pleasant.

•It is the piper who brings the cows home.

•If you must study until the cows come home, and he doesn't bring them until the second Tuesday of next week you may say the piper has gained.

•Life is a swirling sucking eddy of despair, the piper makes it as such, it is his job, he is very efficient.

•You must never underestimate the piper, he will know and gain accordingly.

•He who does not believe in the piper will eventually pay double.

•The piper extends credit readily, but the payment plan is most ugly.

•If you cant afford to pay the piper he will find some thing of value to take.

•The piper is like a pawn shop, nothing you have is worth what you think.

•The piper is an unreasonable bastard, he sees thing in a different light than the average human, he can not be persuaded to change his views.

•The piper leaves you alone for weeks at a time to lull you into false sense of security at which point he will lay waste to your well being.

•The piper loves people who drink vodka.

•If you think that you have tricked the piper out of paying he will be happy to show you that you are very foolish.

•You must never, under any circumstances piss off the piper.

•The piper is never on your side.

•Ignorance of the piper is no excuse, he will gain on you accordingly.

•If you don't practice safe sex you will eventually meet the piper most personally.

•Swearing at the piper will not avail you.

•The piper makes riddle chicks because he loves frustrated people.

•You have heard about the poor sap who picked up what he thought was a woman. This is the pipers way of saying that you get to much.

•The piper is he who tricks freshmen into thinking that open book and take home tests will be easy. It is said that he hangs out just to see their faces when they realize the truth of the matter.

Woolworth plan to relocate campus to aircraft carrier, Squids are psyched

By I. Lbenow
Snoozer

Woolworth consultants plans to restructure the campus include a radical idea to completely move the campus onto an aircraft carrier.

The idea, although different, couldn't have come at a better time say Woolworth sources.

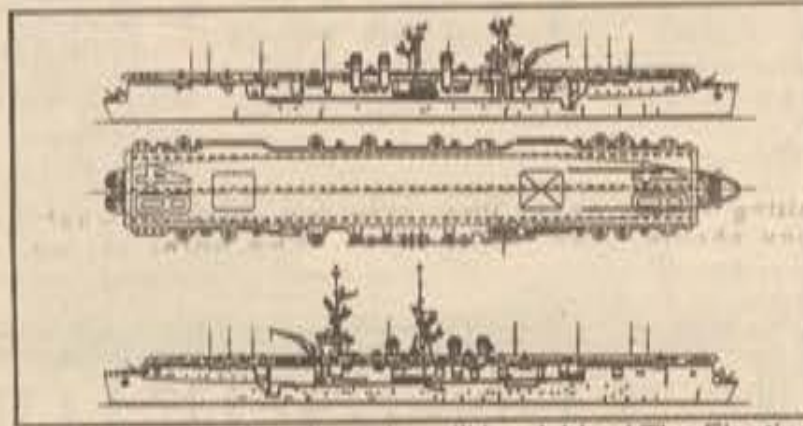

The current breakdown of the defense system places a number of decommissioned aircraft carriers in a marketable position.

The idea came out in a brainstorming session which included other dead ideas like a stewardess school and a weather minor.

Apparently the correlation was made with the size of the school and the size of an aircraft carrier. The school has approximately 5000 people working on it total. This is the size of an average aircraft carrier.

The dorms would be replace by crew quarters and the difference in space and quality is negligible.

The staff and faculty would be closer to the students and this would bring a better atmosphere in the

The University aircraft carrier will be dubbed The Floating Diddle. It will be necessary to bring some sand, as plots will not be content without some sort of beach.

The Public Relations and Admissions department looked on this as an ample opportunity.

The expansion of the College of Continuing Education and the publicity of moving from coast to coast and up major rivers, even internationally was to good to pass up.

The Flight department even researched accelerated studies and refresher courses, and University officials are looking into purchasing Dramamine in large quantities.

The best dump sites on campus, a comparative study

By Big John Puke
The Staff Scurge

I've been at Embry-Riddle for many years, and over the course of that time, I have taken the opportunity to relieve myself at several of the facilities around campus. I felt it might be helpful to my fellow students if I let you know which toilets are the best and worst on campus. Thereby you may plan your strategy for using the facilities on campus.

The first rule on campus is to use the, what I call, "industrial" strength toilets. Unless you are some little salad eating 100 pound person who discharges only a few logs per load, you probably should use the larger, more durable toilets around the campus which can withstand the heavy cable we lay. Bottom line, use the right equipment for the job.

But, you may find that intermissions are necessary. This is because, especially for us larger folks, we simply have to break the dump up, otherwise clogging is imminent.

The best toilets on campus have got to be in the library. By far, these toilets consistently perform well, with plenty of elbow room and storage space in the larger stall for books, magazines and other paraphernalia as well as relaxing.

These toilets are always clean and stocked with adequate amounts of toilet paper.

The worst toilets on campus have got to be the ones located near "B" building in the academic complex. These toilets should be avoided at all costs. For they are frequently clogged and the toilet paper is always running out. They smell terrible as well. I guess that because they're nestled so far out from the main area of campus that the cleaning folks simply don't clean them enough.

However, even our worst toilets on campus are better than any toilets at clubs during spring break. Boy, I pity the person who needs to take a

It has been decided by our resident expert that the toilets in the library are by far superior to other toilets on campus. These bad boys were build for comfort, not speed.

McDonald's corporation announced yesterday the purchase of the McDonnell Douglas corporation.

This take over was the result of "believing in magic", said Ronald McDonald, president of the McDonald's corporation.

Mr. McDonald later announced that the McDonnell Douglas name will be converted to the McDonald Douglas corporation.

"This allows many new advantages to our affiliated company," said Ronald. "Were not looking for cheap gimmicks to satisfy the youth anymore, our target is the businessman," he added.

In early breaking news this morning, newly named Mayor McCheese, Vice President of McDonald

Douglas announced that some aircraft that have been produced by the former company would be redesignated. These aircraft include the C-17 "GlobeMaster", now known as the C-17 "Quarterpounder."

The United States Air Force objected to the renaming and refused to designate the three aircraft that have been received. McCheese agreed with the Air Force's decision and stated that all orders for future C-17 will be specified on the contract as the "Quarterpounder" and if the avionics package under development is requested that the order will be placed as a "Quarterpounder with cheese."

McCheese also announced that the F-18 would be designated as the "filet-o-fish" and the AV-8B "Advanced Harrier" will now be known as the "McLean Deluxe."

Birdy, newly named chief test pilot of McDonald Douglas feels that this will boost moral for all aspects of the corporation.

Ronald McDonald said this afternoon that the cluster bomb would also be renamed. "McNugget Cluster Bomb", Ronald said smiling, "and there only available in six, nine and twenty."

Ronald also said that some products offered by the McDonald's corporation would change names. These include two meal deals being designated as the "MD-80" and "MD-90".

"Were also changing a sweat and sour sause to afterburner sause," Ronald said, "We plan on placing Saddam Huisane face on our catsup packets so that Americans can find pleasure in squeezing his little head and watching red stuff come out." "I find this very amusing," Ronald laughs.

United Airlines today announced that pornographic movies would be shown on there late night early morning flights.

"We hope to boost sales of our business class tickets sales," said Don Pecker, President of United's Entertainment division. "It's so difficult filling those aircraft at night" he said, "We need more physical activity and interaction with or flight attendants and the people."

Knowing very well that flight attendants put out makes this an ingenious plan. "We must compete with the other airline's, and this will keep United well ahead of everyone else," Pecker said.

Pecker, a frequent night traveler was devorsed in late 1989 and this may be the reason for such a drastic step in entertainment.

When asked, what kind of porn flicks do you plan to show? Mr. Pecker replied "All kinds, Bisexual movie for the first hour, followed by a gay flick, then a lesbo pictorial."

"People think its for the wild people, but really everyone in this world would love to do it in an airplane!" Pecker said. "I believe that once people begin watching these films, they will turn to their seat partner and play out parts of the movie."

"No longer will the night flight be for sleeping!", Pecker later added.

Films will begin being aired in late July with 'Debbie and the little people.' They ain't so little.

And that's about it....

Cliton renames Kennedy Space Center

Goldout resigns as Administrator, says he's "fed up with the Billmeister!"

By Luke Skywalker
May The Force Be With You

President Billy Cliton has decided to change the name of Kennedy Space Center to the Cliton Space Center.

The move was designed to destroy the image of the Space Center and establish himself as the new successor to Kennedy as the "next generation" leader of America. Everyone who worked at the former Kennedy Space Center has quit.

Nathaniel Goldout resigned as NASA Administrator immediately after receiving the news of Cliton's name change. Goldout said, "Billbo is definitely off his @#%$! rocker."

In a statement released by Georgie Mitchell, that whining majority leader of the senate, congressional support is given to Cliton's action. Georgie porgie says, "We feel that the President has acted in a prudent manner, fairly and equitably for all and in a way which is beneficial to ensuring his re-election in 1999." Dooo, Georgie doesn't realize that the elections will come in 1996.

The rebuttal came from rebel Bob Dole. What about Bob said, "This is an outrage." No kidding, schwing!!!

Anyway, other members also split the issue down party lines. So, Cliton is holding a bash down at the Space Center. Rumors indicate that Cliton himself will be blasting off in a trip on the shovel.

Gay and lesbian groups support Cliton because he ensures to make their sore butts accepted in the military and in space. GALBA came out in support of Cliton's proposal as soon as it was released. They hope, along with other gay and lesbian groups, that gays and lesbians will be allowed to fly in space.

This big change in the Space Center is expected to have lasting repercussions, according to kindergartners throughout the nation. They say that they will boycott drawing the shovel and other space vehicles until Cliton's tyranny is halted.

Finally, Danny Quallie had comment on this recent event. He wrote, in a letter to congress, "The more Cliton scoos up, the easier it'll be for me to beet him in '97!"

Programs affected will be the ship to Alpha Centauri, the warp drive program and the development of fast food restaurants in space.

Cliton feels that our first priority is to get a hamburger stand in space so that he can truly walk around the world and get some fast food.

In an incurable fit of narcissism, and against rants and raves from the whole country, President Cliton airbrushed his picture on the Southwest wall of the VAB and all four of the space shuttle orbiters.

Well, I'm glad you finally made it here. This was just an experiment on the manipulative power of the print media. Your welcome for your participation.

WHAT THE SHUTTLES AREN'T DOING, RIGHT THIS MINUTE

1.) Flying!!!

2.) Blowing up!!

3.) Any good! (see The Jewish Avenger's Editorial)

What They Are Doing:

Crumbia - Crumbia is at Lunch Pad 39A where it sits and sits and sits and sits. A local landscaping company recently removed several quarter inch saplings that rooted in two of the shuttle's main engines. Engineers have traced the problem to a paperwork error that called for workers to "seed the hydraulic intake valves," when they were actually supposed to "bleed" them. NASA has invited the World Trade Center bomber to put the dying orbiter out of its misery.

Recovery - The orbiter Recovery has just undergone a full diagnostic review, assisted by its sponsor, the National Aerospace Plane (NASP). The orbiter was originally reluctant to attend the reviews, but after continuous hounding by its sponsor, got through the denial phase. NASA insists that Recovery will remain on the wagon in preparation for its planned late century lunch.

Devour - The Space Shuttle Devour has enrolled in a new program designed to control its eating habits. The Overoxidizers Anonymous group, whose members include the Stealth Bomber, NASP, and Energya, meet regularly to reduce the amount of fuel they habitually require for their missions. Devour's goal is to consume only 1,000,000 pounds on its next lunch. Only time will tell if the orbiter can live down its name.

Uranus - The orbiter Uranus is in San Francisco, Calif. for an enema and long-awaited lube job. Rockswell engineers recently inspected Uranus and found unacceptable levels of deposits jammed in the aft compartment of the main engines. After an aft compartment flush was completed, the orbiter felt sooo much better and should be ready for lunch later this year.

NASA announces new vegetable space program

By Hairy Mola
Ordnance Engineer

STS-58.5 will be the test flight for the world's first vegetable in space. This is the culmination of ten years of extensive testing by National Aeronautics and Potato Administration (NAPA) to find the perfect vegetable astronaut.

Early on, the plan called for squash to be used. Unfortunately, those of squash kind tend not to take well to high g stresses. Other candidates also did not fair well.

Lettuce just did not have the right stuff, they just could not keep their heads. Tomatoes in general have a very violent disposition, i.e. they killed two celery stalks while waiting to be interviewed. NAPA found their veggieaut in late 1984.

Potatoes would be the lucky veggie. Out of several thousand applicants seven were picked. Seven potatoes started their training at Edward's Airforce Base on April 1, 1985. Tate R. Tot, Spud T. Stud, Mash D. Potato, P. AuGratin, Hash B. Rown, Tate R. Twist, and French E. Fry were the lucky spuds.

The program almost came to a tragic end on January 12, 1986 when one of the magnificent seven accidentally got freeze dried and placed on the menu of STS-32 (Crumbia).

Spud T. Stud became pilot, Charles F. Balding, Jr. second day dinner side dish. When asked about the tragedy, NAPA spokesman Hugh G. Mouth said "The potato incident was a great loss to the space program. I'm sure he's in that great salad bowl in the sky."

When asked about the incident, Astronaut Balding had this to say, "Spud was a great little guy...well, he did taste great with cheddar and chives."

The program almost came to a tragic end when one of the magnificent seven accidentally got freeze dried and placed on the menu of STS-32.

Tate R. Tot will be the primary mission specialist for STS-58.5. Tot received his PhD. in horticulture and organic plant psychoanalysis from the University of Idaho in 1979. Tot's experience includes three years with Westinghouse as chief psychiatrist in charge of tree mental analysis.

He also served as an administrative assistant to the undersecretary to the oversecretary in charge of horticulture special interest terrorist fanatical groups operating in the Midwest that wear plaid overalls and chew tobacco. Other experience includes two years in the ground. At a press conference on April 4, Mr. Tot expressed his excitement, "I'm looking forward to this mission, ever since I was a little eye on my mother's side, I looked forward to this day."

If all goes well Mash D. Potato will fly on STS-59 as the pilot, P. AuGratin will fly on STS-60 as the primary mission specialist. The other potatoes have not yet been assigned a mission.

New veggieaut Tate R. Tot poses in his special-designed spacesuit that keeps his skin nutritious and his insides crunchy.

In a public press conference to be held tomorrow NASA Administrators plan to release the top secret findings of the Commission to Assess New Imaginative Technologies (CAN-IT).

The commission, initiated by President Cliton, has the task of reviewing ideas for technological advances and determining the exact amount of funding that can be stripped from the program without actually canceling it entirely.

When asked about CAN-IT and their findings, NASA director Dan Golding stated, "Those $500 6'00 zilme dogs! They think they can cut my heart out and serve it to me raw, but see if I don't 6%$6 ***% with ketchup and then 6(6) to their family's dog. They'll regret ever faking their ACT scores so they could get into law school!"

When Golding was called for further comment, his secretary informed this newspaper that he had suffered a heart attack and could no longer be reached.

Among the findings to be reported tomorrow is the very questionable future of the Space Station Phonebooth. As expected, President Cliton has again cut the budget for this vital piece of space technology.

As it stands now, the Space Station will be paid for by wherever the designers can save from their lunch money. That is, of course, after the IRS's chunk has been taken off the top.

In addition, NASA will announce plans to re-target the Hubble Space Magnifying Glass at the request of the White House.

While first enthusiastic about the interest the first family was taking in the Magnifying Glass, NASA officials were later disappointed when told that it would be used to find the keys to the Rodham Cliton accidentally dropped somewhere on the South Lawn.

Now, in an experiment being conducted for the first time in the Avloff, we will attempt to transport the reader in the middle of a story.

If you will just stand by while we begin to recalculate the vector product of the curl of the divergence over the lifting line theory humbug.

Ready, and energize.....

try this stupid little stunt.

NASA administrators will also reveal their long awaited calendar for the next century of space exploration.

By 3:52 in the afternoon of June 2, 1999 NASA plans to have finished its preliminary re-evaluation of the design of the Space Station.

"Holy $#!? Captain, it actually worked! Aye, but I transported them one column too far."

Great, there's no telling where the rest of the story went. It could be anywhere in this worthless publication. I guess that's the last time we

Off the ledges of science

A subhead that would have been full of technical jargon that no one would understand and would have also been too long to fit into this space (nobody reads this damn column anyway)

By Dain Bramage
Space Wreck Guff

And now for something completely different in Off the ledges of science.

The Avloff recently received a tip from an anonymous source, who identified himself only as "Professor X," claiming of an incredible discovery. The caller offered to divulge some astonishing information that would, according to the raspy voice, "knock your socks off!" All we had to do was meet him in front of the Pantheon.

After reviewing the fudged budget and recent imaginary advertising revenue, the E.I.C. approved four thousand dollars for an entourage of four Space Wreck Reporters to fly to Rome and meet with Professor X. The Editor's justification to the Student Finance Board was "We're going, and you'll like it!"

According to the only reporter who retained any conviction due to sobriety, the trip lasted approximately eight days, with only a short four day visit to a small 200 year old pub in Dublin. When the team returned to the office they began the task of decoding the professor's notes, as well as adjusting to the bland taste of non-alcoholic beverages.

Once decoded, the notes told an incredible story. In 1975, while aerodynamic tests were being conducted on various lifting bodies in preparation for the design of the proposed space shuttle, scientists at the NASA stumbled upon one of the greatest discoveries in the field of Idiology.

Idiology is the science of studying impossible mind twists that only some of the geeks in the computer lab think they understand.

Actually, I think many of them have majors in Idiological Engineering here at Diddle, because they are all too often seen doing their NetTrek and MUD homework on the Sunstations.

A group of scientists at the Langley Research Facility accidentally discovered the existence of powdered water. The events leading up to the discovery are not clear in the notes, but the Avloff suspects they were alcohol related.

When the Avloff contacted Mr. Gorge Piller, head spokesperson at the Cliton Space Center, for NASA's official comment concerning the powdered water discovery, he stated, "I'm sorry, Mr. Dain Bramage, but due to the top secret nature of your inquiry, I am unable to offer a comment at this time. But I would be very curious to know just what the hell kind of drugs you college kids are doing these days!" I hung up.

According to the professor's notes, NASA scientists have spent the last eighteen years and approximately $52 billion trying to determine what exactly to add to the powdered water.

This man ain't gettin' "Nun"

This man, who asked not to be identified, was caught in the act of transvestisism (where one dresses up in horrible clothes belonging to the opposite sex) by undercover Avloff cameras. Not only is this a growing problem among Griddle students, it is also becoming a nuisance to church-going people. An investigation is currently underway to determine the cause of such sick behavior, but preliminary clues indicate the culprit to be an ingredient in Morrison's cafeteria food. This ingredient has also been shown to cause extreme obesity. Until this ingredient can be isolated, avoid any food from Morrison's Cafeteria. In fact, this is a good idea in any case.

WEERELYBLO releases This Band Sux, and proves that there really are bands out there that deserve to be censored

By Mike Rotch
Staff Infection

When I review new bands, I usually try to give them a break on my evaluation, because they are either just starting out, or because I know they can do better.

The band WEERELYBLO, however, is so bad that I have no choice but to warn unsuspecting music fans away from their new album This Band Sux, and prevent the catastrophe that would follow the release of such a horrible album

Even the title of the album says just how bad these tone-deaf losers really are. It's clear that WEERELYBLO knows where they stand as far as talent is concerned.

The first track of this travesty is a song entitled "Oh, My Inflatable Doll," has grinding gear sounds with some kind of sucking noises going on in the background.

Once past the initial abuse, I came across a so-called "melody" that went by the title of "Can't We Just Cuddle?" It is this sort of complete tastelessness that makes me want to get out of the reviewing business.

Not only did the singer mumble out a few words that sounded like "I'm not a man, but I want you anyway," but whatever instruments they were playing were drowned out by sounds of their heaving fans.

Apparently, this was the band's only live performance of that song, because after the it ended they were hauled bodily off the stage by the audience.

I simply can't describe the rest of the songs, because to do so would make me sick. This album is good only for those wishing to piss off the neighbors or get rid of rodents in their house. Otherwise, stay away from any sound resembling these songs.

WEERELYBLO reminds me of Spinal Tap, with the exception that Spinal Tap has some redeeming qualities. This band, however, makes me and every other music-loving fan hurl.

Think I'm kidding? Just take this quote from their lead singer, Jacques Strap, who said, "If you like the sound of cats screwing, you'll love our album. If not, don't torture yourself."

The only people who seem to like this album tend to be the same ones who listen to bands like Gwar. In case you haven't heard of this them, Gwar's main gimmick is beating bones on the stage and puking fake blood.

Overall, I would rate This Band Sux on a scale of 4 boot factors, with one boot factor being a probability of 10% that the average listener would hurl upon hearing it. If you do buy This Band Sux, don't blame me. I warned you.

Even the title of the album says just how bad these tone-deaf losers really are.

Don't buy this CD. It has been proven in 3 out of 4 taste tests that prolonged exposure to the noxious noise this band excretes causes dain bramage. Unless you're doing serious drugs or happen to be a masochist, avoid listening to this at all costs. If you see This Band Sux in stores, leave quickly. If you hear their songs on the radio, turn it off.

The rest of the Space Wreck story

-By the year 2017.5 NASA will have The Space Shuttle Columbia prepared to launch STS-55 into space. The launch will continue from the accidental T-3 second abort last week. Officials say they are still looking for the prankster that pulled the Main Launch Computer's electrical cord from the socket.

Suspects include a certain opinionated Avion section editor and very tall shutterbug. It is assumed that they felt embittered by having to miss class to attend the launch and searched for a means of childish retaliation against NASA and their inconvenient delays.

-Finally, by the year 2000-something, the Space Shuttle will be phased out of use in favor of a vehicle that actually works at least 3 percent of the time and costs less than the price of a small country to launch.
