Heart Walk brings out over 1,500 residents

Michael Paterson

Guest Reporter

This past week, the American Heart Association and the Heart Walk at the Daytona Beach Campus took place. The event was held to raise money for the Heart Association, to raise awareness about heart disease and stroke, and to provide education and research in those areas.

The campaign was organized by local businesses, including Publix, Walmart, and others, who donated $42,500 to the Heart Walk.

West Palm Beach

Walking into the Bandshell, there were two large, four-column billboards, a large screen, and a stage. There were two teams competing in the event, one from the Student Activities office and the other from the campus. The teams were divided into six groups, each with a different theme.

The event started with the first group, which consisted of students and faculty, walking around the campus. Then, the next group, made up of faculty members, walked around the campus and sang songs about heart health.

The last group, made up of students, walked around the campus and sang songs about heart health.

Heart Disease and Stroke Awareness

The American Heart Association is a national organization that focuses on educating people about heart disease and stroke. The organization was founded in 1921 and is dedicated to improving the health of Americans through education and research.

The American Heart Association provides education and research opportunities for students and faculty, as well as community events such as the Heart Walk.

Dr. Ashley Leal's Hybrid Learning course will allow students to have a semester of face-to-face and online classes.

Evidence-Based Practices in Online Learning

Evidence shows that learning in hybrid and online courses can be as effective as learning in traditional courses. According to Dr. Leal, the online component of the course allows students to learn at their own pace and in their own way, which is crucial in today's fast-paced world.

Dr. Leal's course includes a semester-long project that requires students to work with a mentor in their field of study. The mentor will provide feedback on the project, and the student will have the opportunity to learn from their mentor.

Dr. Leal's course also includes a peer review component, where students will be given the opportunity to review and provide feedback on each other's work.

The hybrid nature of the course also allows for flexibility in terms of the number of courses students can take. According to Dr. Leal, this flexibility is important in today's fast-paced world, where students often have to balance work, family, and school.

Dr. Leal's hybrid course is designed to be inclusive, with the goal of providing the best learning experience for all students. The course is available to all students, regardless of whether they prefer face-to-face or online learning.

The hybrid class is a great example of how technology can be used to enhance the learning experience for students. It also demonstrates the importance of flexibility in education, as students often have to balance work, family, and school.

For more information on Dr. Leal's course, please visit the ERAU website or contact the Office of Academic and Student Services.

Political strategist shares newest book

Richard Weylkie
Staff Writer

Nationally recognized political strategist and author Dick Morris is once again in the spotlight. Morris is known for his book, "War is Peace: The Truth Behind George W. Bush's Lies," which was written in 2003, and has been making appearances to promote his newest book, "Sectumsempra!" The book is set to be released on October 11, 2010.

"Sectumsempra!" is a collection of quotes, sayings, and adages that Morris has found throughout his career. The book is aimed at giving the reader a glimpse into the mind of a political strategist and the author's thoughts on the current political climate.

"I believe that young people are the future of this country, and that it's important for them to know the truth," Morris said. "This book is a way for me to share some of the wisdom that I've gained throughout my career."

The New Blackboard

Brad Clancy
Sr. News Correspondent

The addition of a new Blackboard has made the transition back to school a little more difficult for both students and faculty. Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University is currently using a beta version for Blackboard when students have been国家级. According to an anonymous source in the University, there will be some problems in the next few days as the semester is in progress. “It’s a bit of a panic,” the source said.

The version of Blackboard has some “surprises,” according to one source of Blackboard. “Some have complained that it is ‘fast,’ ‘slow,’ and ‘it just might be my computer working properly.’ Some have complained that it is ‘just fine,’ and others have said it is ‘too slow.’ However, some of the students have said it is ‘imperfect’ and ‘unstable.’ The new Blackboard has been in use for two days and is still being tested.

This version of Blackboard seems to be going pretty well, according to the user. “The Blackboard is easy to navigate and allows students to easily access their courses. The interface is well-designed and user-friendly. The new Blackboard seems to be a step forward in the education of students,” the user said.

However, the problems with the new version of Blackboard are not to be neglected. “There is nothing wrong with the current version of Blackboard,” the source said. “The new Blackboard is not yet ready for use in all courses. According to the user, there won’t be any significant changes in the next few days. The new version of Blackboard is expected to be launched in the upcoming semester. For now, students can continue to use the current version of Blackboard. The university has already taken steps to ensure that the transition is smooth for all students.

Virgin Galactic is a company that offers tourists a chance to fly into space on a suborbital trajectory. The company was founded in 2005 by Sir Richard Branson, business tycoon and founder of Virgin Group.

“We just finished building SpaceShipTwo. We are 18 months away from taking people into space,” said Sir Richard Branson, founder of Virgin Galactic.

Customers pay $200,000 to reserve a future ticket. Virgin Galactic has already collected $47 million in deposits from 335 future astronauts who are awaiting their turn to fly into space.

The SpaceShipTwo is carried to an altitude of about 50,000 feet by the mothership, a jet-powered aircraft called the White Knight Two. There, it is dropped. After falling a safe distance, the spacecraft fires its rocket motor for about 70 seconds, which blasts the spacecraft to 2,600 mph. The spacecraft then coasts to its peak altitude of about 68 miles, which is 6 miles above the Kármán line—the edge of space. At 80,000 feet, the spacecraft begins a 25-minute glide back to the spaceport.

Currently the company plans to build five SpaceShipTwo spacecraft. The first, the VSS Enterprise, was rolled out on December 7, 2009.

The SpaceShipTwo is based off the SpaceShipOne, which won the Ansari X-Prize in 2004. The Ansari X-Prize was a competition to develop the first re-usable non-government funded spacecraft.

The Eagles took home three regional titles, sweeping the USTA/ITA Florida Regional women’s tennis teams.

Tennis advances to quarterfinals

The Eagles will advance to the quarterfinals of the NCAA Division I Women’s Tennis Championships with the opportunity to win the culminating national championship this year. The team will face the top-seeded team in the next round.

Eagles take off line to send a long-range shot into the net in the game.

The goal seemed to give Florida momentum, but the Eagles continued to press the game offensively and were rewarded for their effort in the 97th minute. An unmarked Laura Nowak was able to get a hand to the ball, but it was slipped through both hands and deflected off the line before bouncing off of Allison Smalling.

The Eagles play their next conference game on the road in the first half, taking a 1-0 lead against the Lions when AliAbb and Lea Constancio scored goals in the 11th and 20th minute respectively.

Released in 2001, Robbie Williams’ fourth Studio Album represents his take on the Great American Songbook, featuring covers of popular classics such as “Mack the Knife”, “Something Stupid” and “We’ll Meet Again”.

This album serves as a great introduction to Swing music and all fans of “Swing music” should give this album a listen. The swing purists might say that this does not do justice to the Rat Pack but the album brought Jazz into being and Swing is the main stream and is evidenced by its huge success in the UK and Europe, staying a record 83 weeks on the German’s Album Chart!

The first song, which is also the only original song, is the ode to the Rat Pack, with notable ones being “Good Year” with Frank Sinatra and Nicole Kidman, who also sang in Moulin Rouge, does an excellent duet with Robbie in the album, with notable ones being “My Way” and “Good Life”.

Overall, this is a good album, suitable for easy listening or to be played in the background when one is hosting a classy cocktails party or dinner. If you’re looking for something more relaxing or something different, you should give this blast to the past a try.
