Halloween Dance In Review

Telephones, clowns, monkeys, and various other things came out Friday night to the annual S.G.A. Halloween dance at the Desert Inn.

You were met at the door by the sounds of the Madisons and a casket filled with Bill Ball and several mannequins. The casket was donated by the Dale Woodward Funeral Home and the mannequins from Belk-Lindsey.

Prizes were given for the best costume. The waterbeds were won by Mr. Spock - Bill Goldstein and Gladis and Tyrone F. Horn - Beverly Pant and Glenn Golden. Radios were won by John Chaponniera, Ray Slavik, and Dave Luidvinaitis.

A couple of great personalities at the ghoulish affair were Dean Spears and Dean Mansfield.

For Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Peller the dance was something more. They got married just before the dance.

All in all, Friday night's dance was a lot of fun for everyone who attended. For those of you who missed the dance don't worry, the Christmas dance is yet to come.

Note!

Last Friday your SGA through our annual Halloween Dance. I heard from all quarters it was a huge success for those that came. We gave away waterbeds and radios and a long evening of fun. The winners of the prizes should be listed elsewhere. Credit must go to Skip Dawson and Jim Dieugenio for all the details like getting a casket from Dale plastic dummies from Belk Lindsey, and a live dummy Bill Ball of API.

On to the future, its one week to the Greek Week and Soccer BBQ. Everything is on schedule so I hope to see "you all" on the soccer field Saturday Nov. 11.

Other news of the future like tomorrow and Sunday is the Kissimee Air Show. Next Sunday is the Bunnell Air Show. Bunnell is having a "bombing" contest and accuracy landing contest, maybe it should be mandatory for commercial pilot courses. Why not send one of Riddles planes and see if you can "bomb" the target.

Till next week,

FOR THE RECORD

by Bill Bass

To the "Editorial,(name withheld)" author, I would require you to go through reorganizing comments in response to the underhanded slap at the SGA.

The special meeting, to which you refer, was called for the purpose of concluding action on pending legislation. (The Senate could have waited until the next regular meeting). Your comment that, "Much legislation was referred back to committees, most of which had not been formed at the time the legislation was initiated," could not be true. The proposed legislation was intended to alter the recently ratified By-Laws. The committees, to which you refer, were created under the Constitution and their duties were further defined within the By-Laws. Therefore they were in existence at the time the proposed legislation was initiated. (Or were you implying that the proposed legislation was intended to alter something that didn't exist?)

If you will read the Constitution and By-Laws carefully, you will note that most legislation is required to go through a committee. There are good reasons for this. It provides an individual to which responsibility may be assigned and it provides essential time for adequate consideration of the proposed legislation. Committee concensus usually provides a sound starting point for deliberate bodies when considering a question.

The intent of the Senate was not to "delay any changes" in the By-Laws but to ensure that the procedures for enacting legislation were not circumvented. Admittedly this procedure is new to the Senate but these people are sincerely interested in fairly representing their constituents. Since this was the first legislation proposed under the new procedures, it was important that they be followed.

It is not unusual for an ad-hoc committee to be established for the purpose of considering proposed legislation. This is a normal procedure in the legislative process. While hind sight indicates that an appropriate committee was in existence to consider the above mentioned question, the elections sub-committee. I take your comment related to the author's statement on the constitution and By-Laws as a personal insult. As the principal "drafter", writer, and chairman of the committee, the considerable time and effort was put forth to provide documents which embodied the proposals of contributors and clarified numerous gray areas in the old documents. Since I am in my final trimester at ERAU, there is no way for me to "benefit" from the new Constitution and By-Laws nor was there any intent by any member of the committee to do so. Your implication of such in erroneous and slanderous.

In drafting the new documents, there were no reference sources from which school colors or mascot could be determined. It became evident, after questioning a number of students, that no one really knew the answers to these questions with any degree of assurance. The Committee selected the alternative of putting something on paper rather than leaving them undefined. Hind sight also indicates that these two items should have been left in the Constitution where a student referendum would be required to change them. (You see, we are not so naive as to believe that these new documents are perfect but we resent change for the sake of change).

If the initiators of the proposed legislation had bothered to check, he would have discovered that "bald eagle and American eagle" are synonymous when one is referring to one of the two predominant species of eagles in North America. Therefore, the legislation was superfluous contrary to your opinion.

Had you bothered to report the facts accurately, you might have mentioned that the Senate was virtually unanimous in its action during this special meeting. I might also point out that deliberative assemblies occasionally convene as a Committee of the Whole when a rapid informal discussion is necessary to speed up the legislative process. If you desire to verify that, please refer to page 233, seventy-fifth edition of Robert's Rules of Order.

The proposed legislation and your vitriolic editorial have one thing in common. Neither had a name attached. The Senate wasted precious time attempting to process legislation that the initiators didn't have the guts to sign and hoped to slide in under the door. The Senate should be commended for giving a damn, not criticized for doing its job.

Freedom of the press carries a responsibility for accurate reporting. Since your comments were under an editorial title, I can only conclude that some member of the AVION staff saw fit to harangue the Senate as a vendetta for its recent effort in extending budgetary control to organizations receiving SGA funds. (Did that strike a sensitive nerve?) The Senate accepted the overwhelming ratification of the Constitution and By-Laws as a mandate from the student body. It seems appropriate that we should, to the best of our ability, abide by that mandate. Your help would be appreciated.

Mr. Base,

I am sorry to disappoint you but the article you are referring to was not written by myself or any member of my staff. The article was printed as a service to a member of the student body, just as your article is, regardless of the opinion.

On the last page of every AVION there is a statement which says, "The opinions expressed in this paper are not necessarily those of the University or all members of the Student Body, nor do letters appearing in the AVION necessarily reflect the opinion of this newspaper." You have obviously not considered this statement before arriving at your conclusion that the AVION printed that article to "harangue the Senate as a vendetta for its recent efforts in extending budgetary control to organizations receiving SGA funds?" Since you did not consider this I cannot accept your conclusion as valid.

NEW PROFS ON CAMPUS

A new professor at ERAU is Dr. Robert S. Brown, who heads up the physics department (not to be confused with Robert M. Brown of the general Aviation department). Dr. Brown's hometown is Cape Cod, Mass., his wife and new son of five weeks both hail from the state of Connecticut. His wife's name is Jean and his son's name is Robbie.

Dr. Brown received his B.S. in 1963 and M.S. in 1966 from Lowell Technological Institute in Mass. in physics and mathematics, and his Ph.D. this year at the University of Connecticut. He has been employed by the M.I.T. Instrumentation Laboratory and Hanscomb Air Force Base, Air Force research laboratory. He has had teaching experience at both Lowell Technical Institute and the University of Connecticut.

Dr. Brown presented his thesis to the International X-Ray Conference in Glasgow, Scotland on a study of X-Ray absorption spectra of Copper, nickel, and zinc, in Sept. of this year.

Some of the hobbies that Dr. Brown enjoys are playing the accordion which he has played professionally and playing bridge. He is a letterman in both baseball and soccer, and once dreamed of being a professional baseball player.

We of the Avion Staff and students of Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University extend to Dr. Brown a hearty welcome to the ERAU campus, and a sincere congratulations on the new addition to his family.

The Vet's club had an open weekend last week. However, the flag football game on Sunday between the Vet's and the undefeated "Bushmaster's" turned out to be about as much excitement as one could fit in a weekend. The game was played fast and hard from the first play, as is indicated by the score, 0-0.

I noticed quite a few fans on the sidelines rooting for the team on, I really think it helped, so if you have not made a game yet, get it up this Sunday and come on out. You will really enjoy it! The "Vet's" are playing the "Cowboys" at 9 AM followed by the undefeated "Jet's" versus the undefeated "Bushmasters" at 10 AM; a morning for good football is guaranteed.

There's a meeting tonight at the Boar's Head Lounge at 8 PM, the purpose of which is to nominate officers for next year. Remember, it's your club, so make sure to have a say about who runs it. That's about all this time, hang in and drive careful!
Sigma Phi Delta

Everything has returned to normal around the Pi Chapter houses after a week of travel, and the brothers have settled into the old routine again.

Sunday morning Sigma Phi received a second setback at the hands of Delta Chi. Pi Chapter's offense never quite seemed to get off the ground and into its usual form. The defense did a creditable job making few mistakes. Those, however, were costly ones that put Delta Chi on the scoreboard. In general, it was determined that the zone defense was best if Delta Chi were to be handled properly. Next week Sigma Chi will face Alpha Eta Rho and try to extend their record of 4-2.

Sunday, during Pi Chapter's regular meeting, the upcoming Greek Week events were discussed. Along with familiar Chariot races, and beer chug, there will be a singing contest, sack relay race, and other events which will pit the four fraternities against each other in an effort to capture the Greek Week Trophy. Everyone is urged to attend. Rest assured that the afternoon will be a great one for participants and spectators alike. Until next week.

Alpha Eta Rho

Not a single alarm clock went off this Saturday morning. All was quiet and in a recuperative stage. Friday's Halloween Dance really did us in. A hand of applause here for Mr. Spock (Bill Goldstien) who won a water bed for the best costume of the evening. Bill is one of our new brothers.

Sunday marked another epoch in the saga of the Phi eight. We just can't seem to put a good game together, as was the case Sunday when EX came from behind to win 12-6. Maybe now the time has come for some practice. AHP is 1-5 and tied with Sigma Chi in the cellar.

We've been talking about it for a month now and finally the big event has arrived. This Saturday, Nov 6th is AHP's semi-terly Girl Auction. Some twenty Tri-Delta lovelies from Stetson University company on the auction floor. The place is the Rho House, the time, 7:30, so why not come on over and see what you can buy.

See you next week, Greek Week that is, on the fields of valor.

Delta Chi

Gamma pledge class with some help from the brothers, turned in a very successful car wash last Saturday. It was a well-planned event and they have several more surprises to be announced in the Avion.

Delta Chi put further claims to first place as we beat second place Sigma Phi. We had trouble gaining momentum in the first half. But in the second half, some good ground gains by Marcelle and Harvey, an unexpected interception by Shanholtz (aren't you proud??) gave Barry the opportunity to throw some touchdowns. It was another lopsided game as the final score was Delta Chi 20, Sigma Phi 0.

That ends Round 2 of a scheduled 3 in the inter-fraternity league. Now at the 2/3 season mark, we're 6-0. So as the season drags into November, be sure to make it to one of our games, we need only two more wins to clinch first place!

For seven days, they went awfully fast, didn't they? That's about it, bye!

Sigma Chi

The brother's of Sigma Chi would like to congratulate Dennis Caldwell and his wife, Mary, for the birth of their child, a 7 pound 11 ounce baby girl. She was born on Saturday, Oct. 24. It is their second child, the first being a four year old boy.
It was a real victory out on the football field last Sun for the brothers. A touch down was made on the first play, but recalled; however, it inspired our victory over Alpha Eta Rho. Congratulation!

Greek Week is coming up: a chance to compete in intrafraternal games, while sharing brotherhood, no matter what your fraternity. We've had great times in the past and hope to make Greek Week '71 the best yet.

SIGMA CHI PLEDGES

Members of the pledge class poured a half ton of concrete as a foundation for the new Bar-B-Que last Saturday.

Some suggestions have been made for our community project, but nothing definite has been decided.

Pledge brother Chuck Bouvin, a member of the Young Republicans was out speaking to citizens of Daytona Beach last Sat. on the proposed new taxes. The pledge class would like to thank the SGA for organizing the fine Halloween dance last Friday night.

Alpha Rho Omega

For the first week since the beginning of the Fall trimester, Alpha Rho Omega did not have a pledge to be considered for membership. Never fear, though, this week's meeting will have taken place by the time you read this, will see what promises to be the largest group of pledges. Thus adding to the ever increasing ranks of the professional fraternity, Alpha Rho Omega.

Today, Friday, November 10th, the fifth is the day of the raffle drawing in the student center. You need not be present to win. Plans are in the making for the December banquet when the representative of the Society of Licensed Aircraft Engineers and Technologists will oversee the operations of our Fraternal organization. I am sure he will consider Alpha Rho Omega the premier fraternal organization of its kind in America. Everyone should be able to help make him feel at home.

LOVE MEANS...

Future Shock, the sociologists tell us. Future Shock? Never. We're suffering from Schluck Shock. And it all revolves around one word: Love.

What used to be so personal, private and intimate has turned into a merchandising formula for wealthy would-be poets and capitalistic couldn't-be writers who never have to say they're sorry.

Mass-produced love, like hula hoops and Barbie Dolls, is a new vogue.

"Love is universal and love is an easy thing to merchandise," says the merchandising director of Paramount Records. And not only are there bountiful banal books and multitudinous maudlin movies about the subject, but we're buying those books and seeing those movies. We're not being taken by it. We're taking it in.

We're allowing today's millionaire mod prophets to perpetuate old romantic myths that dictate the meaning and greening and, breath. Or the frizzies. Or psoriasis. Or your mild case of terminal acne.

You'll find it if you buy the world a Coke. You'll find it if you live alone - alone - alone with a cat named Sloppy.

Cardboard Love in enveloping -- rather than developing -- us. In poetry, in movies, on television, alleged literature.

"I used to be in love with my teddy bear, but I love you lots more..." proclaims a book called "I love you" that's guaranteed to be so impersonal you'll give it to anyone, your lover, your mother or your teddy bear. One dollar please.

Or Peter McWilliams who has written a slew of sappy books ("Come Love with me & by my Life," "I love therefore I Am,"

"I lived for love. then I lived in love. then I lived love. now, with you I just love!

Two dollars please.

But their books read like Walgreen greeting cards compared to the works of the Fathers of love: Erich Segal and Rod McKuen.

Love Story: about a male student who plays hockey at Yale, breaks away from his rich father and finds a poor coed who gets married and then buried. $5.95 in hard-back, $5.50 in paper-back please.

And Maestro McKuen: "If they could overlook my acne and the inch I lacked/to carry them to heaven/I too could deal in charity." $4.50 please.

"Rod puts into words all the things I feel," said one girl I know who doesn't even have acne. She considers McKuen's prose poetry to be good literature because it puts her feelings into words. But good literature takes words and transforms them into feelings.

McKuen and Segal deal in greeting card kitsch, but on a different level than the other. They manipulate us into wanting to believe that love is easy. Their works are read quickly, cried and signed over quickly. They lead us into a fantasy world, where life is a love story where loneliness is a national pastime, exceeded only by leucemias and acne. And they laugh all the way through the bunk and to the bank.

Love Story has sold more than five million copies and was made into a successful (financially anyway) movie. McKuen's books and records have earned The Bard more than $5 million a year. Not bad for a little love.

And what does it all mean? It means that we're desperate enough to find out the meaning of love that we'll go through one-night stands with McKuen and Segal, who have become Dr. Rubeens in romantic drag. Everything you/always wanted/to know...

So what does it all mean? The answer is probably best put in one of McKuen's own poems: "If you had listened hard enough/you might have heard/what I meant to say: Nothing.

But whatever they meant to say, they say it over and over and over again. Maybe love means you never have to say...

SOCCER

The past weekend, ERAU Eagles were off to participate in what turned out to be a Soccer Jamboree where University of Florida of Gainesville played host to FSU, University of Tampa and ERAU.

The tournament started at 1PM when the Eagles met the hosts in a tense match which ended in a lone goal in the Eagles favor. It was scored by A. Fagbemi in the heat of nerve-racking scuffle at the Gator's goal area.

The Eagles then went on to encounter the University of Tampa in what turned out to be a Soccer Jamboree. The tournament started with a 6-1 victory from our Eagles. However, the result this time was to say the least beyond anticipation. FSU team drew a 1-1 tie with the champions of the tournament and again lagged Eagles.

The game ended four minutes after our striker Fagbemi lobbed in an unaccessible shot from within the 16 yd. zone. Thus winning Eagles won the 2nd match of the day and were ready for the 3rd. and last.

The end was not in sight until the Eagles met on a different field. FSU who were hosted a week before with a 6-1 victory from our Eagles.

Riddle Eagles won the trophy and boy was Coach Mansfield happy. For once, since this current soccer season have the Eagles played a match without a penalty kick. Thanks to our experienced and unbelievable defence line (Ed Forst, C. Rungsand R. Powell, S. Phlanger and J. Medina). Not to mention the efforts T. Akabugo who set a record time played by lasting the whole of the 3 games total 120 minutes.

IMSA Championship at Speedway

American subcompact automobiles will be put to the test against foreign imports when the IMSA GT Championship Series culminates at Daytona International Speedway Nov.19-20. Chevrolet Vegas and Ford Pintos are set to compete against Japanese Toyotas and Datsuns, German Audis and BMWs. Italian Fiats and Swedish-built Saabs in the 'Baby Grand' sedan race, one of six events scheduled over the three-day road racing weekend. Although Datsun driver George Aldermen of Newark, Del. has locked up the A sedan championship and Byron Morris of Durham, NC. has clinched the B sedan crown in a BMW, the Pinto and Vega drivers are sure to be after a victory in this final event of the season.

The only other win this year for the American Manufacturers came at Bridgehampton, Long Island in June when Jerry Walsh of Englewood, NJ scored a victory in the B sedan race behind the wheel of a Pinto. Walsh currently lies third in the point standings, but a win here would guarantee him second place in the championship.

Terry Farquar of Durham, NC. and Bob Keslin of Sterling Heights, Mich. will also be among the drivers attempting to upset the BMW stronghold in the B sedan class. Terrington will drive a Pinto while Keslin is set to handle a Vega. The IMSA program begins Friday, Nov. 19, with practice for all cars over the 3.81-mile international road circuit. More than 150 competitors from the southern and eastern United States are expected to compete for the $25,000 in prize money.

On Saturday, Nov. 20, Formula Vees, Formula Super Vees and the 'Baby Grand' sedans are set to tangle in three separate races. The morning will be filled with practice sessions.

An invitational handicap race at noon, Sunday, Nov 21, begins the final day for the IMSA Championships. Formula International 100s follow the handicap cars on the track with a 50-mile race and a 200-mile GT event is set to climax the weekend of road racing beginning at 2:30 pm.
A famous Artist once said "I paint what I see, not what I know is there". What he meant was that what he saw was an expression of himself, and this was what he put on canvas in order to communicate it to others. Conversely a pilot does what he knows is right not always what he feels or sees.

Human beings learn a great deal from the perception of things. They learn to interpret the world around them. When a person becomes a pilot he must be particularly perceptible since he has to learn to disbelieve quite a lot of what he feels and sees, either that or he becomes an ex-pilot one way or the other.

A pilot is subject to many illusions when coming in to land. For example when a normal approach to an airfield is made at about 300 feet and if the runway slopes upward 1° the illusion will be given that he is coming down too steeply. If the runway slopes downward 1° the illusion is that the approach is too flat.

When it is raining refraction on the windsheild adds its own illusion by indicating a horizon below the true horizon. This error can be as great as five degrees, so that coming in to land at a distance of one mile the runway appears 200 feet lower than it actually is.

When a pilot is aware of information and what to do with it he can compensate for the distortions of what he feels and sees.
