PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES’ VIEWS

OWEN - IRVING TEAM

Jim Owen thanks you for this opportunity to give his qualifications and views for the office of president of the SGA. His qualifications go back a long way. While in high school he became involved in opening a new school, helping to start the student government, to start projects to complete the campus, and to develop traditions.

His first trimester at E-RAU he became involved in the Dorm Council. The next trimester he was elected to the senate.

In the last year in that position, he headed many committees, fought many battles and helped reform the SGA into a powerful voice on behalf of the undergraduates at E-RAU.

OPEN OFFICE

The SGA office is now open to all students except the senators and officers. Jim believes the function of a student government office is to give the students a place to air their gripes and make suggestions. If Jim is elected president of the SGA on Wednesday, the SGA office will be open to any student of E-RAU.

INFORMATION

A new service should be started by the SGA to give information to those new students who arrive before orientation or during the trimester. These people, needing to know about housing, have been shuffled around and given no information. As a student government we need to serve all the students, old or new.

MEETINGS

He has advocated open meetings since joining the student government, and has resolutions in committee to help accomplish this.

PARKING

There is nothing any president can do about the parking situation as it now stands.

The solution to the problem is not in the academic complex but near the student center and A & P complex. This problem is unsolvable until the new buildings are built.

No policy by any president will add more than a handful of spaces to those now available. Jim believes that projects should be completed to the campus, and to develop traditions.

STEENBOCK - WOODWARD TEAM

Stan Steenbock, nominee for president of the SGA, has asked for support for himself and the team. The team consists of Stan Steenbock, Ken Woodward, Bill Medley, Jim Daily. Stan, our present acting president, has a multitude of experience in SGA affairs. He is presently enrolled in the A & P program and is willing to represent both academics and flight line students and will be representative in these areas.

Ken Woodward, nominee for vice-president, is presently enrolled in Aviation Management. He holds an active interest in student activities. Ken wants to get involved and has strong feelings for a better communications bridge between student body and administrators. Mr. Woodward, a past airline pilot would like to see better relations between hiring companies and E-RAU.

Bill Medley, nominee for the position of secretary, an Aviation Management student wants to see a strong SGA that will be representative of Embry-Riddle students needs. Bill, an instructor on the flight line, has a chance to see students and feel the problems in this area, and promises to see corrections made.

Jim Daily, nominee for treasurer of the SGA would like to see better information turned out for the students. Jim, a past president of the Vet's Association and now the manager of the used bookstore feels fully qualified to take over the treasury. He is now enrolled in A & P and promises to have better representation for the A & P section.

The team as a whole would like to fight for better representation of the student needs. The students in the flight line, A & P, and academics all have special needs and the team would have people from each of these areas to represent them. They deal the need for improvement in areas of parking, shuttle service for dorm students, and better rapport between student problems and the problem solvers. They would work to have more people see better recognition of Embry-Riddle graduates. By working as a team, these four men will be working better together or against each other, which means more problems being solved for you, the student. Get out and vote for the team!
Another week ended with activities coming up this weekend; namely, the SGA Barbecue. My social functions chairman, George Merian, tells us that this will be the biggest fish fry our school has ever had and promised to have plenty of soda to drink. An exiting parachute demonstration by E-RAU's Sports Parachute Club will also highlight the barbecue. The demonstration will take place at approximately 1:45 pm. The elections are drawing near and the deadline for petitions is today. To cut out and new voters, candidates need to familiarize yourself with the issues. There are still seats open in Air Science and C & A, become involved! Run for the Senate. I am happy to have some good news for the Dorm I residents. During the next several weeks construction will begin for a recreation room and a snack bar adjoining dorm I. Hopefully this will help relieve somewhat the plight in Dorm I.

At a recent trip to Valdosta State College, Orlando, I represented our SGA at a Volunteer Services Fair. Its purpose was to promote a regional volunteer service bureau. My own feelings about the project are that the E-RAU SGA has done and is doing their part in the community.

Congratulations to Ray Brown (ASP) and William Hooley (FM) on their appointment as Student Court Justices. I regret to inform you that my statement in last week's AVID concerning concerns at our residence center in Germany was a bit premature. As of now, classes at the German residence center will begin November 6, 1974. The intramural teams have informed me that the intramural flag football season is now in full swing. Come on out and support your favorite team. That about wraps it up for this week's message.

Your President, Stan Steenbock

Bigot's News

Our Marshal of Man-kind's moral + running out of time. The full-blown feather brain has four more mends to dish out. The smut and filth he sees in the world today. The son of a minister sees only corruption and evilness in everyone, excluding only the core of deviants who surround him. He has turned a possible kingly campaign into a mud-slinging.

After expending on the unworkable and unquotable programs to get his nomination secured, he tried to sell them to the public. But the right thinking public isn't buying his comic rot! The misfit and his crowd of deviants are all too late. They belong to the "spend ourselves broke" and "concede to the communists" era of the Johnson administration, the man most responsible for putting a republic on Pennsylvania Avenue.

I hope George isn't really planning to move out! It looks though the present occupant will be signing another four year lease.

WHY VOTE AT ERAU

Next Wednesday morning the polls will open on campus for a number of SGA positions. There are four candidates running for the office of the president, with many senator positions. "But why should I take a minute or so of my precious time to vote in a school election?" For several important reasons.

First, the outcome of the election effects each student personally. Some candidates will work for you while others will do whatever they feel like doing at that time. Check the previous records of those running for office and just may put them in a whole new light. Two of them have been chairman of the SGA Social Functions Committee. Both resigned.

Secondly, the university building plans are constantly in a state of flux, usually with student ideas and wishes being the last thing considered. A good example is the parking problem. A strong president and senate could straighten out many of our problems but the right people must be chosen for this position of responsibility.

Finally, unlike a national election, a few votes can make a drastic difference. As few as four votes could tip the scale the other way. To please your last minute Wednesday and vote for the person who will best represent you.

Jai Alai: Everything You Ever Wanted To Know
by Joe Green

The History
Most students are new to Daytona Beach, Florida, and probably don't know a pelota from a cesta. Actually they are the bat and the ball used in baseball. But just what is jai-alai, and where did it start? The Basque and Mayan Indians are thought to have originated the game. The sport, as we know it now, started about five hundred years ago in the Pyrenees mountains.

Jai-alai peasants, working from dawn to dark, six days a week, used Sundays as their day of recreation. They had contests, throwing a ball against a wall of the village church.

The playing court. Then it is in play, with each team turning takes to return the ball against the front wall. The ball is caught on the fly or a bounce, and play continues until the ball is missed or a player fouls out. The team winning the point stays on the floor, and plays the next team. The losing team goes to the end of the line. Any point game is won after the first team has scored at least a specified number of points. Usually, the number of points needed to win is a less than the number of teams playing.

The Cesta
The cesta is a curved basket strapped to the player's wrist. The frame is of Spanish chestnut wood and an imported reed is strapped to the bottom of the frame. The pelota is about three-quarters the size of a baseball. It is made of sheep's wool and is a ball that is hit with a recurved stick, three branches tied together at the bottom, and an axe cut into the top. The pelota is hit by the player's hand until it hits the ground. The pelota is then hit with the cesta, and the point game begins. The number of points needed to win is less than the number of teams playing.

The Court
The court is 9,460 square feet of playing area. The court is about 100 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 40 feet long. There are walls on three sides and a screen on the fourth side, between the spectators and the players. The front wall is made of 12 inch thick granite blocks, each weighing ten tons.

The Game
The game starts with team 1 hitting the ball. Team 2 serves the ball against the front wall. Team 2 must return it to a specified area on the playing court. Then it is in play, with each team turning takes to return the ball against the front wall. The ball is caught on the fly or a bounce, and play continues until the ball is missed or a player fouls out. The team winning the point stays on the floor, and plays the next team. The losing team goes to the end of the line. Any point game is won after the first team has scored at least a specified number of points. Usually, the number of points needed to win is less than the number of teams playing.

The Best Part
Jai-alai is played indoors in air conditioned comfort. There are bars, cocktail waitresses, and pari-mutual wagering games. That's right, you bet on jai-alai, just like a horse or dog race. Even if you don't bet, it only costs 50 cents to get in, parking is free, and it's exciting.

Rules were formulated, competition became keen, and matches were arranged between the best players of each town. Spectators usually drank wine, and Sunday became fiesta day, which in the Basque language was called "jai-alai." This means "happy holiday".

The first mention of jai-alai appeared in the chronicles of King Enrique II. An unknown

by Rory Donnelly

Tony Stevens, Lonesome Dave Pepper, and Roger Earl, all on the original Savoy Brown Band, got it together with Rod Price and the call themselves Poghat. Quite unexpectedly, however, Poghat is a complete contrast in music from the band's old Savoy Brown style.

The album, of the same name, produced by Dave Edmunds, in an example of how much fine producer can add to hot boogie music. A Bud Scoppa, of "Rolling Stone" Magazine says, "the self taught Edmunds is clearly without peer as the creator-in-the-studio of that raw, edgy, primitive sound so closely associated with rock and roll."

Despite all of Edmonds' capabilities, it is the music that is the most impressive part of this album. With the combination of two guitars, bass, and drums, Poghat displays a sharp sense of imagination in music.

The first cut on the album is "I Just Want to Make Love to You" by Willy Dixon. It starts out so softly that you begin to reach for the volume control and suddenly the song really begins, peaking throughout the song.

Peverett's voice blends so perfectly with his own guitar playing and that of Rod Price that you'd swear that the sounds all came from the same instrument. As can be heard in "Leavin' Again" and "Rolls Hall of Fame," Price and Peverett are masters of effective rhythm guitar playing.

I can't help but hear a slight similarity between this album and Stones' new "Exile on Main Street," if you like ones you'll probably like the other. For the ending, things are slowed down a bit and the sounds are softened, but Poghat's classy guitar playing still stands out.}

To Fly

Mr. Thomas Clay, Dean of Flight Technology, has invited academic professors to sample J-Walt's Gemini flight concept by observing students during training flights.

Many professors have never flown in light aircraft and are not acquainted with flight line procedures, staff. Now the opportunity is at hand. So walk on over to the Gill Rabb Wilson Center and see how it's done.

SOCCER SEASON BEGINS

Embry-Riddle, masterminded by graduation, enthusiastically opens its 1972 soccer season September 23 against a strong Marymount College team.

The game will be played at Marymount College in Boca Raton.

There are only three players returning from last year's undefeated squad (1-1-0). As well as being conference champs, Marymount was ranked seventh in the nation when the season ended.

Any team that may have a national ranking should have some support from the student body that represents. Go out and watch a few games.

Captain Gary Haupt said, "Despite all of our inexperience, I'm sure we'll have a fine season." Haupt would make no further predictions, however.

INTRAMURAL FOOTBALL

by Robert Angila

A meeting to get the Intramural Football League organized was held last Monday, with Mr. Wurzbach residing.

Controversial rules were cleared up and a schedule for the first week of competition, Sept. 24, was established.

At the present time 8 teams are scheduled. If there are any other people who would still like to form a team, see Mr. Wurzbach as soon as possible so your team will fit into the following week's schedule:

Sept. 24
9:00 Sigma Phi Delta vs. Coyotes
10:00 Veto vs Sigma Chi
11:00 Lambda Chi Alpha vs Sunshine Co.
12:00 Delta Chi vs Cowboys

Sigma Phi Delta
by Mark Desendorf

Things are looking up for Sigma Phi Delta this tri. Pete is throwing pledges at us right and left, and can we use them (oh, how we use them). Brett is in the newly elected house management (a position he designated this tri) as "noise to the grindstone". We hope to make our house the best on campus through the help of our gifted brothers, eager pledges, and cooled Schlit.

Congratulations to Chase, who resigns again as chief engineer.

On August 19th, Alpha Rho Omega became a charter chapter member of the Professional Aviation Maintenance Association. (PAMA) Its headquarters are currently in England. PAMA is one of six smaller organizations to go into PAMA as a charter member. The purpose is to form a large national organization within the United States.

Alpha Rho Omega fraternity would like to welcome all of the new A & P students and also those who already have their A & P license to Embry-Riddle and Daytona Beach. Alpha Rho Omega hopes to be a source of help, advice, and information.

Delta Chi
by James Hunter

While some of the other fraternities were having their rush parties this past weekend, the brothers of Delta Chi got together for a social gathering of their own. The event lasted until early Saturday morning, and some of our brothers didn't even make it to football practice Sunday morning! You can imagine what we rush party will be like. At our last meeting, we smoothed out most of our problems and made the final preparations for the upcoming rush party. We had an especially good turnout in which everyone agreed to most everything brought up for discussion (we even got caught up to date with our bills). The meeting was attended by the traditional dinking of a Delta Chi brother who was recently married. This time it was Fusco's turn to get wet. The Delta Chi Jets had the final word on Wednesday before the first big game on Sunday morning. Both teams are in top form, and it is sure to be plenty of excitement and blood. If you're still hungry after the game, you can truck on over to the Ed Bar-B-Q and fill up on hamburgers and beer.

E-RAU had a problem. It's known as overcrowd-ning. With the dorm filled to capacity, the recently been floating around campus that the students are not so happy in their new home.

Transportation to and from school seems to be the major hassle for those without private vehicles. Some say they have to leave as much as an hour before class to arrive on time.

Studying isn't the major snafu, as long as the students can share the dressing-desk rooms. Except for those students looking at transportation is causing problems, all seem to be happy in their new home: Students whose lack of

Men's decision can also be appealed to the Dean of Students. If the case involves a course the student can see the Division Chairman to appeal the ruling of an instructor and even appeal this decision to the Dean of the college.
One must keep in mind that the student has the right to appeal, but this right should be used only when necessary. If an instructor shows the student why he received a certain grade based on attendance, grades, and answering questions, the appeal should not be filed unless the instructor has made an error.

If you are not sure who to see about your problems, there is always the Dean of Men's office in the right direction.
