ON THE LINE

By Rod Casting

For those of you who have grown tired of fishing in this area and then go south where Lake George and Lake Woodruff, I have a suggestion: go south young anglers, to the land of sugar, white sand, and salt, to the land of big fish in Lake Okeechobee. Located in southern Florida, Lake Okeechobee has some 750 square miles of bass producing water. Florida is known for its large bass, and Lake Okeechobee boasts being the biggest of the state. It is perhaps the most dependable spot for consistent catches of 5-10 pound bass. The fish conservationists say that the world record bass comes from this “fresh water ocean.” (The present world record stationed still stands at 77 pounds and was landed a monster 23-pounder in 1932.)

No better place to look for a big bass is in an abundance of water and length of the growing season. A fish is a process in Florida which is restricted to 6 months in the northern states.

The water abound with shrubbery, lily pads, and peppergrass beds. The bass don’t act like big bass but do. Rushes andextend several feet above the water. The refresher is plentiful. In the stilty holes around the edges of these hay fields and has no reservations about gobbling up a lure skillfully maneuvered near its open dome or is partially submerged. A “refreshing” water of the okeechobee bass which will have you saying that it is overthrown these grass beds.

By the way, if you barker for a good meal of bass for the freezer, run your boat up into the peppergrass, rig your cane pole to fish about 18 inches deep, and move a live minnow from one small hole to another, you can’t have time to put the pole down, so say goodbye.

DINING OUT

By Bernie Palmer

In an effort to keep the elaborate students of ERU Admissions informed of the quality of the local restaurants, the following restaurants present a series of articles about the quality of the restaurants in the Daytona Beach area.

This week my wife and I dined at the Captain’s Inn at the south side of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Bridge. This unique restaurant offers a beautiful view of the ocean in a lovely dining room. You can enjoy the scenic view and the food. The menu, while selecting from a wide variety of seafood or non-vegetarian dishes, is moderate in price. You can enjoy the seafood. The restaurant is entirely to the use of the guest in the bulletin to use as his standard.

The aspect of giving credit for U.S. lower and lower level classes, Dean and chairman of the department that credit is honored for courses were initially taken. An example would be a lower level course taken at another university would be transferred as a lower level course even if the same course was taken in an upper level course higher level.

Dean Mostell pointed out that the most frequently arise during these transition and these credit points be evaluated individually.

Joseph P. Gamaroni III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Gamaroni of 108 Dunklin Drive, N.Y. has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from the Air Force Military Sciences for officers at Lackland AFB, Tex.

An advisory committee from the Southern Accrediting Association met to review and complete evaluation of the new aviation management program in Aviation Management.

Department Chairperson Dr. Creel stated that everything went well and the committee members believed that the program should be improved with the addition of a new state-of-the-art facility. The report should be returned to the university by the end of the year.

Interview

Dean Mostell Growth Oriented

By Bernie Palmer

Dean Mostell has asked that the new Program Committee Committee look into development of the university’s flight attendant, computer science aviation, and avionics as possible programs areas. Subcommittees have been formed to study these areas and make an analysis of each.

The Academic Committee for admissions by academic policies to include USAPA and CLEP examination requirements for admission. A review of the lower requirements has been made to lower the USAPA and CLEP grade requirements but this no way is to be construed as a lowering of the university standards. Past experience with students who were below the 70th percentile but not less than the 70th percentile has given us some academic problems.

A student will have the opportunity to demonstrate the lower requirements by requesting a reevaluation of his past work and electing to graduate with the lower requirements. The student should, however, study the lower requirements carefully and be aware of the implications. He must graduate under the conditions of the bulletin that he used for his admission requirements.

Dean Mostell stresses that a lowering of the standards would not lower the quality of the education which he is entirely up to the use of the guest in the bulletin to use as his standard.

The Brighter Side

"few Among Many"

By Susan King

It’s not too hard to figure out who are the "brighter side" of "few among many" I’m referring to the female populace.

Outnumbered yes, but they are doing a great job and we can look at some of the male generation and just being a girl you’ve got it made.

If they only knew! Oh sure, there’s plenty of knowing, that’s a guy’s job. Enjoy it inconspicuously for most of the time but you’re around and when we look at something that stores them in those programs.

Now if ever cut class knowing that the professor (providing he doesn’t know you properly) won’t notice you won’t be able to cut class for ever many times at other universities but here, if you do cut class, the professor would surely notice your absence. There go my late morning naps...

Minorities are also the other

The one of the guys mention is that a graduate must be great, at all the dates we could possibly want. I have one question for that gentleman. How can the reputation of being 90

That is not for me. Besides, what are we all here for anyway. To get a college education? We could have stayed home if we were looking only for something else. I can look in the mirror elsewhere but I’m not handling $650 per term for a job.

So men, please, next time you meet an ERAU girl don’t take your "Exicipation Manual" and recite "questions to ask" ("Why did you enter Aviation?"") or "Do you have a boyfriend?" ("Do you have a pilot?") Are you kidding me? If you are we’re doing here, learning how to be a pilot, and doing your own job. If so, remember what you’re doing here, learning how to be a pilot.

Student Body Senate Notes

The Senate began passing the proposal presented by Ron Nyhan at the last Senate session. Mr. Nyhan, President of the Senior Class, presented additional information and cost figures about the proposed Senior Class Party. They seemed to be acceptable to most of the Senators present.

When the party was introduced, two resolutions were brought to the floor for debate and vote. The first was a proposal for a Senate Ball and Farewell/Awards Party. It was reported it could be held at the University House and total cost would be about one hundred dollars. The resolution was passed.

The second resolution was a proposal to accept a revised set of traffic and parking regulations and subsequent penalties.

EAC MATTINGLY-These sets of regulations comprised about six typewritten pages. They were neither published, distributed nor properly researched by the Senate. When the Senate Session was over, the regulations were not available. Copies can be printed in the new Student Handbook.

When the floor was opened for discussion of the consuming debate issues, a motion was made to end further discussion, which was accepted, and the matter was put to vote to be accepted.

Jolley spent approximately three years working as a Traffic Control Officer in the U.S. Air Force and John David, a student at Birmingham Southern.

As written. It was passed.

Shortley thereafter, President Reimann announced that the whole was the Bill and called for a special session to convene about 45 minutes later, after the close of the present session to further discuss the matter.

EDITOR'S NOTE—It is my firm opinion and I feel responsible decisions are to come from these sessions the Senators must be given the benefit of your for they all must make them.

This is an excellent example of poor preparation on the part of the Student Body President. One man does not make an organisation.

During the special session, which lasted 11 hours, the resolution was further revised and the regulations revised. Because of time constraints, our several Senators had to leave before we were not enough Senators for a quorum. The resolution was further reviewed and will be discussed at another special session to be held on Friday the 20th.

Intramural Basketball

The big game between the heavily favored teams took place last week with the Hawks defeating the Pres in a hard fought contest. This leaves the Hawks at the top of the standings with only two weeks remaining before the playoffs.

In games Monday night the Faculty won over the Steelers and the Jets beat the Bulls. In a close game the Vets edged the Knicks and the Pres got back in the win column by stopping the UU team.
